Robbers Outwit Clerks, Flee With $190

DAPPER TRIO STRIKES IN 3 CITIES IN HOUR

TACTICS SAME IN EACH

Two Ask to See Merchandise to Engage Clerks, Third Loots Safe, Cash Box.

Three dapper robbers, minus guns, who outwitted clerks of three hardware stores in three nearby cities Saturday night, and escaped with $190, were sought by authorities in north central Ohio communities today.

In each case, the robbery was timed and executed so smoothly that it was not until the trio had left the stores, that employes of the three places discovered they had been robbed.

Hit Shelby First.

The trio visited the Black Hardware store in Shelby first. Three hours later A. C. Black, proprietor of the firm, discovered his office safe had been looted of $40 in sales tax money.

The robbery took place at 6 p. m. while Donald Ralston and Roscoe Wiser, clerks, were on duty while Black was at dinner.

Ralston and Wiser told police that three "well dressed" men had entered the store and asked to see camp stoves. While they were waiting on two of them, police said the third was probably looting the safe which had been left open during the business hours. The money was in change and small bills.

Get $50 At Crestline.

A half hour later, three men answering the same description looted the cash register of the Ellzy Weaver hardware store in Crestline of $50.

Police called to the store by George Davis, a clerk who was alone at the time, were told that one of the men asked to see a stove. The other two waited.

When they had left after failing to make a purchase, Davis discovered that the cash drawer had been robbed. Miss Gertrude Weaver, daughter of the proprietor, who had left the store as the men entered, was called back from her home and estimated the loss at $50.

Police said that from the description of the men, it was learned that they had been in several other

QUARANTINE OFF

Diphtheria Ban at Hospital Lifted by Commissioner.

A diphtheria quarantine in force in the private pavilion at Mansfield General hospital for the past three days, was lifted Sunday noon by Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county public health commissioner, Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, hospital superintendent, announced today.

The quarantine was placed on the pavilion last Thursday by Dr. Rehder following the discovery of a case of diphtheria. The victim was four-year-old Clarence Feeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Feeman, 44 West Fourth street. His condition was reported as better today by Dr. Fonkalsrud.

In the pavilion were 14 other patients, all were placed under quarantine, and all had throat cultures taken. The child was isolated on another floor. Three other victims, all of whom had been in the private pavilion, were isolated Saturday by Dr. Rehder. One was one of the 14 patients in the pavilion, one a visitor, and the other, a nurse.

OFF PAYROLL

Liquor Enforcement Supervisor Not on Job, Says Humphrey.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Al Humphrey, state liquor enforcement chief, announced today that Joseph Maiden, Canton enforcement supervisor, "is off the payroll."

The senate graft investigating committee has insisted upon Maiden's dismissal after submitting evidence that he had forged and padded expense accounts.

CARDOZO STILL 'UNCHANGED'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Dr. John Paul Earnest, jr., said today that the condition of Supreme Court Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, seriously ill with heart disease, was "unchanged."

CHINA REPULSES JAP OFFENSIVE

Kai-Shek Tells Troops Not to Retreat as Armies Scuttle Foes In Counter-Drive.

SHANGHAI — (AP) — Chinese armies on the northern, central and Yangtze valley fronts were reported today to have pushed back Japanese invaders in a series of counter attacks.

Advices through Chinese channels said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in a second visit to front lines had ordered his troops "not to retreat a single inch."

Chinese reported that:

1. The Chinese eighth army, organized from once-outlawed communist units, inflicted heavy losses on Japanese in central Shansi province;

2. A Chinese force along the Yangtze river above Nanking pushed back Japanese outposts, occupied two villages near Wuhu and prepared for an attempt to recapture Wuhu itself;

3. A Chinese guerilla unit captured Chwansha, on the Pootung peninsula opposite Shanghai, bringing a Japanese declaration of martial law in Pootung;

4. Outer Mongolian troops advanced against Paotow in the northern province of Suiyuan.

(Dr. H. H. Kung, Chinas second powerful leader, declared China "can continue the war for years," and said "all current talk of Chinese-Japanese peace, which apparently is inspired by Tokyo and Berlin, is utterly baseless.")

JUST STARTING

Man, 110, Thought Dead, Proves He's Still Alive.

SAN FRANCICO — (AP) — "Me dead? Life begins at 110," said John Harrison to an ambulance crew that rushed into his apartment.

Glancing through a window, a passerby had seen Harrison—who claims he was born in 1828—asleep on a couch and concluded the aged man was dead.

BLUM FAILS TO FORM CABINET

France Calls Upon Chautemps Again to Organize Ministry to End Crisis.

PARIS—(AP)—President Albert Lebrun today called upon Camille Chautemps to end France's four-day cabinet crisis when Leon Blum, Socialist leader, abandoned efforts to form a "national union" government.

Radical Socialist deputies said Chautemps, a radical Socialist, was being charged with formation of a ministry to succeed his own cabinet, which resigned Friday in the face of financial and labor troubles.

Blum, who had been designated after he had blocked efforts by Georges Bonnet, radical Socialist, to form a government, had met conservative opposition for his plan to draw support from centrist factions for the people's front lineup of Socialists, Communists and radial Socialists.

Blum renounced the premiership with a declaration that "I want neither a day nor even an hour lost to the country for my personal satisfaction."

The Bank of France permitted resumption of foreign exchange dealings which were suspended Friday but ruled that transactions

Art of Dining Graciously Vanishing, Writers Claim

Noted Home Economists Here for Westinghouse Clinic Contend Trek to Breakfast Nooks Growing.

By JANE WILLIAMS

The art of dining graciously is becoming a lost one in America as the concerted move toward breakfast nook in the kitchen continues to grow each year, contend magazine writers, heads of home making institutes and home economists who are meeting in Mansfield today and tomorrow for the annual Westinghouse kitchen clinic.

The unusual and annual trek of distinguished women editors and writers, representing all of the larger publications in America catering to women readers, began last evening and continued this morning until 21 women and two men were registered for the opening of the clinic.

Only Clinic of Kind.

Mansfield is the only city in America which attracts this gathering each year. The clinic, which plays an important factor in designing new Westinghouse

BAR HEAD STAYS

Judge Hutchison Re-elected By County Lawyers.

Attorney R. E. Hutchison will head the Richland County Bar association for a second year, as the result of his re-election to that post at the annual business meeting of the association last week.

J. H. Gongwer was elected vice president, with Francis R. O'Brien as secretary, and H. H. Schettler as treasurer.

The committee which was appointed some time ago to act on the unauthorized practice of law by Mansfield persons, was instructed to prosecute specific cases on which it reported. These cases refer to persons outside the legal profession who draw up wills, deeds and building contracts, O'Brien said.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston discussed new rules of procedure for common pleas court, and a committee made up of William McE. Weldon, chairman, George Biddle and Joseph A. Bayer, was named to confer with Huston on the rules applying to filing and approving journal entries.

SWALLOWS NAIL

Ohio Girl Rushed to Hospital in Penasy for X-Rays

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Physicians at Temple University hospital made x-ray examinations today of a two-inch nail in the trachea of 12-year-old Doloris Edwards of Copley, Ohio. They said she was in good condition but that no time had been set for an operation.

FASCISTS BOMB CITIES ON COAST

Air Raids Only Sign of Activity In Spanish Civil War.

HENDAYE, France, at the Spanish Frontier—(AP)—Insurgent air raids along the Mediterranean coast were practically the only notable activity today in the Spanish civil war.

Except for minor operations on the Granada front, where insurgents said they straightened their lines, ground forces engaged in little fighting.

One insurgent raider was reported shot down.

The government said several bombs were dropped near the British vessel Seabank Spray; anchored off Barcelona.

KILLS WIFE, SELF

Husband Slays Mate After Domestic Difficulties.

CLEVELAND—(AP)— Domestic disagreements over her visits at night with her mother and friends were at an end today for Angelo Milazzotto, 38, and his wife, Rose Marie, 23. Police found their bodies in separate bedrooms of their small home. Detective Sgt. James Hogan described their deaths as murder and suicide.

SEE SENATORS CONFIRM REED APPOINTMENT

Judiciary Committee Believes Roosevelt Choice For New Justice Will Be OK'd.

HEARINGS ARRANGED

Formal Inquiry to Be Started Despite Apparent Approval of Nomination.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A senate judiciary subcommittee called a hearing today for Thursday on the nomination of Stanley F. Reed to the supreme court.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Members of the senate judiciary committee expressed certainty today that Stanley F. Reed would be confirmed as a supreme court justice this week, enabling him to take his seat before any new cases are heard.

Of the senators who commented on the nomination of the 53-year-old solicitor general, not one raised any objections. Sen. Rush Holt (D., W. Va.), a frequent administration critic, was among members of both major parties indicating approval.

Schedule Hearings.

Nevertheless the judiciary committee arranged for careful scrutiny of Reed's qualifications, even as Justice George Sutherland, whom he will succeed, made his final appearance on the bench.

No cases of national interest were up for decision by the justices, meeting at noon for the last session before a two weeks' recess. The retirement of the 75-year-old Sutherland will become effective at midnight.

After an informal discussion of Reed's nomination by the entire judiciary committee, Chairman Ashurst (D., Ariz.) said he would turn further consideration over to a subcommittee headed by Senator Logan (D., Ky.)

Committeemen expected the hearings would be only routine, however. They said an informal decision had been reached to hold hearings on all supreme court nominations. Failure to conduct hearings on the nomination of Hugo L. Black created a furore when it was found Black once had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Liberals In Majority.

Now that Black is on the high court and Reed has been picked for Justice Sutherland's post, liberals will be in the majority for the first time since Mr. Roosevelt took office.

Reed, a Kentucky Democrat, never has held a judicial position.

CHEER MINISTER

Crowds Jam Streets During De Valera's London Visit.

LONDON—(AP)—Special police details were stationed in Downing street today to hold back hundreds of Irish men and women gathered to cheer Eamon De Valera as the prime minister of Ireland arrived for his peace conference with Britain's leaders.

The problem arising from De Valera's desire to bring Ulster (northern Ireland) into union with the new Eire (formerly the Irish Free State) apparently was the chief obstacle to an accord to compose the long strife between Ireland and Great Britain.

Shouts of "Up Dev!' and fluttering green handkerchiefs greeted De Valera and other ministers of the new Irish regime.

11 MEN, 4 WOMEN NAMED BY JUDGE AT 1st SESSION

James Bailey Named Foreman; First Witnesses To Be Called Tuesday At Reformatory, Says Hurley, Conducting Probe.

A special Richland county grand jury of 11 men and four women, impaneled this morning by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, began its investigation of alleged parole system irregularities at the Mansfield reformatory at 1 p. m. today.

The jury, which will be under the direction of George Hurley and Paul Hergenroeder, assistants to Atty. General Herbert S. Duffy, Columbus, will sit at the reformatory in sessions that may extend over three weeks, Hurley said.

The probe was called to "help clear up accusations against state parole officials and to return indictments if the evidence warrants it," Hurley declared.

Headed by James Bailey, treasurer of the Franklin Finance company, Mansfield, who was named foreman by Judge Huston, the jury is made up of eight farmers and retired farmers, four Mansfield housewives, a Shelby steel worker, and a retired Richland county teacher.

Bailey's name was not in the list of 25 called by the court last week. Judge Huston exercised in privilege in summoning him to serve on the jury and in appointing him chairman.

Nine of the jurors are from county rural sections, five from Mansfield and one from Shelby. The entire list of prospective jurors, drawn last Wednesday, was used before the panel was completed shortly before 11 a. m.

Ten Excused.

Ten of the persons whose names were drawn were excused because of business duties or ill health and the other was excused at the request of [illegible] who at one time been an employe at the reformatory.

In his 30-minute charge to the jury at the courthouse, Judge Huston told the jurors that "your duties will be to investigate serious charges which have been made against the parole system, to cause witnesses to be called to testify regarding any discrepancies that may be found and to report on conditions existing at the reformatory."

At the request of Hergenroeder, who apparently referred to a report returned last week by a special Franklin county grand jury, Judge Huston reminded jurors to "include facts and conclusive evidence to support any recommendations that you make or any accusations against any person connected with the state penal institutions."

Asked About Naylor.

The jurors were asked if they knew Arch W. Naylor, reputed parole "broker," or Leland S. Dougan, dismissed chairman of

BEGIN $100,000 O. S. R. PROJECT

Workmen Break Ground For New Dining Hall, Kitchen at Reformatory.

Construction of a $102,000 dining hall and kitchen at the Mansfield reformatory got under way today as employes of the Shilken Bros. company of Columbus broke ground for the foundation of the one-story structure.

Contract for the project was awarded the Columbus firm several weeks ago by the state welfare department on its bid of $102,450, which was $16,000 under the state's estimate. With the equipment for the hall and kitchen, and a cold storage plant, the project is expected to call for the expenditure of approximately $160,000.

A high board barrier will be erected by the contractor around the project to permit workmen to come and go at will, Arthur L. Glattke, reformatory superintendent, said.

He added that the contractors have assured him that they will employ as much local labor as possible and that they will announce later where persons may apply for employment.

Joseph Trout, of Columbus, employed by the construction company, will be in charge of the work here.

Glattke said he had hoped that the new building would be completed so that it could be put into use this spring.

2 DIE TONIGHT AT OHIO PEN

Columbus, Cincy Killers March To Death Chair.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — With virtually all hope of executive clemency gone, two men awaited their scheduled march to the electric chair in Ohio penitentiary tonight.

Warden James C. Woodard said that William M. Gardner, 35, convicted of the holdup slaying of Arch B. Coyner, a Columbus hotel clerk, would die first. He will be followed by Charles (Teddy) Hines, 25, convicted Cincinnati sex slayer of Mrs. Edith Caudill Hirl.

CALLS LAWYER

Divorce-Bound Ann Hewitt Says She'll Wed Again.

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)—Ann Cooper Hewitt Gay had a call in for her lawyer today to bring to a legal end her three-month-old marriage to 34-year-old Ronald Gay, $200-a-month garage foreman.

At the same time she announced her determination to marry again "when the right man comes along."

The heiress, whose father was Peter Cooper Hewitt, millionaire New York inventor, sent her engagement ring back to her estranged husband yesterday.

Mrs. Gay, who filed a $500,000 suit in 1935 against her mother and two San Francisco doctors, charging they had tricked her into a sterilization operation, said she wanted an annulment of the marriage—or a divorce if that fails.

Father, 4 Children Perish As Home Burns In Jersey.

FRANKLIN, N. J.—(AP)—The deaths of a father and four children in a flaming two-story frame house were attributed today by authorities to an overheated wood stove.

Charred beyond recognition, the bodies of James W. Congleton, 76; Lucy Winifred, 14; Elsie Marie, 12; Sadie, 9; and Paul, 6, were found where they were trapped in their bed rooms Saturday night.

The mother and two other children were away on a visit.

Future of Democracy Depends On Youth, Prexy Tells Forum

Declaring that "one of the most significant things in the past 20 years has been the development of the world-wide youth movement," President C. V. Thomas of Fenn college, Cleveland, told an audience last night at the Park Avenue Baptist church that the future of America's democracy depends upon the philosophies adopted by modern youth.

Dr. Thomas spoke at the weekly meeting of the Community Christian Youth Forum. His topic was "Investing Ourselves In Tomorrow."

"The kind of governments Germany and Italy have are based on the workings of dissatisfied youth," Dr. Thomas said. "Both Hitler and Mussolini played on the emotions of youth in shaping their dictatorships, but in England and America we have forums such as this where curious youth can meet to discuss their problems and plan for a better civilization."

Asserting that the world is "at a crossing of two great movements, one resulting from the discovery of the nature of the physical world and the other from man's discovery of God," Dr. Thomas called on youth to help bring a better balance between the two.

"It's spiritual progress we need now," he said. "The material

'Liquor Front' Quiet, Sellers Comply With 'Curfew' Order

Mansfield liquor permit holders strictly observed the "curfew" order or midnight closing on liquor sales Saturday, Police Chief Meode K. Bates said today.

Bates said a check made by police showed that the various establishments had complied with enforcement order which followed city council's action to refuse any extension of selling hours in a city ordinance which previously had not been enforced.

He warned that he would recommend to the state liquor control board, the revocation of the permit of any liquor operator violating the closing ordinance.

"The citizens of Mansfield have expressed themselves as desiring the observance of the curfew and city council has seen fit to make no changes in the ordinance that they authorized three years ago," Bates said. "Therefore it is my lot to see that their wishes and the ordinance are carried out to the letter."

Quietness throughout the city was even reflected on the police blotter that showed that not one arrest had been made last night. Usually there are at least a half a dozen persons taken to jail on Sunday night for intoxication.

Institute To Use Butter From Page Dairy Company

The Page Dairy company, 65 North Franklin avenue, will furnish Kleen-Maid butter and their famous ice cream for each session of the Gasco cooking school which opens tomorrow morning at the Ohio theater.

One pound of the famous Kleen-Maid butter will also be included in each of the eight baskets to be distributed at each session of the school.

This butter is manufactured in Mansfield, and can be found in grocery and confectionery stores in Ohio and western Pennsylvania. It is made of pure cream received from farmers in this section of the state.

The most up-to-date and sanitary equipment is used in the manufacture of Kleen-Maid butter. Twenty trucks are operated by the company to collect cream from farmers, and to distribute the finished butter. The Page company recently completed a three-story 60x80 foot addition to its Mansfield plant to increase its production facilities.

Nickels Bread To Be Used For Food Institute

Two of the best known of breads. Hy-Spo and Butter-Nut, baked by the Nickles Bakery, 88 East Third street, will be used by Miss Katherine Thiele in her daily demonstrations at the Gasco Food Institute beginning tomorrow morning at the Ohio theater.

Nickles Bakery is very particular about the kind of wheat from which they make their flour, and are just as particular about the flour itself. The flour they use must be ground to certain specifications of fineness, blended to Hy-Spo formulas and aged to the right degree of mellowness.

Most of these processes are accomplished at the mills, but the aging is done at their own plant. A special light air storage room has been built that will hold 10 carloads of flour, and most of the time this storage room is filled to capacity. This large storage room better enables the bakery to properly age the flour, that goes into Hy-Spo and Butter-Nut breads, rolls and other pastries.

Flour to make the best bread and pastries must go through a process of aging. This aging process can best be accomplished in the storage room at the bakery.

FINISH WORK ON MUSKINGUM FLOOD PROJECT

Workmen Completing Huge Dam at Loudonville, Last of 14 In District.

By PAUL K. LEE

NEW PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Flood-conscious Ohio witnessed in 1937 the near-completition of the stupendous $43,000,000 Muskingum conservancy district project, designed to harness excess water and conserve natural resources in the eastern part of the state.

Thirteen of the 14 dams embraced in the 18-county area have been finished. The last, that at Pleasant Hill, near Loudonville, is to be completed before next summer.

Although its directorship has been beset for four years with litigation, mostly concerning special property assessments, actual construction has proceeded under control of the U. S. army engineers.

Protect Industries.

Besides the dams, levees have been built for protection of industries; 69 miles of track on four railroads have been relaid; 57 miles of highways have been re-routed; several hundred miles of public utility lines have been moved; and one entire village—Sandyville, in Tuscarawas county—has shifted to a new site.

Army engineers have set July 1, 1938 as the probable date for turning over the entire district to the directorate.

Before then they still must removed the village of Plainfield and part of the village of Walhonding, both in Coshocton county; clear reservoir areas; relocate power lines near Dover and Bolivar dams; and finish levees at Zoar in Tuscarawas county and at Magnolia in Carroll and Stark counties.

Scheduled for spring and summer conclusion also is the land acquisition program. Already the district has purchased 45,000 acres and obtained flood easements on 4,500. Fifteen thousand acres remain to be bought, along with easements on 40,000 others.

The state highway department is planning to reroute an additional 88 miles of roads at a cost of bout $5,000,000.

Directors of the district reported they expected to end litigation in 1938 to permit early assessments and bond issues for acquiring land and placing the 14 big dams and 11 permanent lakes in opertion.

Even without the dam gates in operation, however, engineers said the area was protected against floods to a considerable extent, as the reservoirs would impound automatically large bodies of water.

In the catastrophic Ohio flood of January, 1937, and the lesser threat of last June, they credited the incomplete project with a great saving in property. Some experts estimated that the dams had kep the Ohio river crest two or three feet lower than it otherwise would have reached.

OPPOSES POLICY

Ohio Solon Says Flood Work Great Aid To Jobless.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Representative Secrest (D.-Ohio) has questioned President Roosevelt's contention that flood control projects would provide fewer jobs than other relief works.

The president, in his budget message to congress, recommended curtailment of appropriations for rivers and harbors and flood control programs on the ground first consideration should be given projects designed to create more jobs for the unemployed.

"Mr. Roosevelt," said Secrest, a member of the house flood control committee, "probably figured direct labor alone. Flood control projects, besides providing considerable employment, would create jobs indirectly through the necessity of purchasing materials needed for those projects."

Destructive Fire Spurs Village To Buy Fire Engine

SANDYVILLE, Ia. — (INS) — Sandyville, a little village of 92 persons nestling in the hills of Warren county, is contemplating the purchase of a fire engine.

Recently 11 of the 18 homes in the village were destroyed by fire. The seven homes were saved when 80 citizens formed a bucket brigade from a small stream on the edge of the town to the seven homes.

The bucket brigade was formed, by men, women and children, some of them scantily clad, with buckets dangling from their arms, to the seven homes.

SLOTS BOOMING IN WAR ZONE

Soldiers Pay $12,000 Monthly to 'One-Armed' Bandits.

SHANGHAI—(AP)—There is at least one American in China who is accumulating a small fortune as a result of Sino-Japanese hostilities in the Shanghai area. He is John Riley, "slot-machine king" of the French concession, who claims Denver, Colo., as his home town.

Riley has more than 50 slot-machines installed in as many bars and cabarets in the French concession which are patronized by American, British, French and Italian soldiers, sailors and marines, who have been concentrated in Shanghai since the trouble started on August 13.

Riley estimates that his machines relieve these soldiers and sailors of more than $12,000 monthly.

WEEKLY BUSINESS SERVICE SECTION

STORY OF PURE OIL'S RISE ONE OF ROMANCES IN THIS INDUSTRY

When we buy a can of coffee, a package of cigarets, or a quart of oil, we seldom stop to think of the company back of these products. The story of these firms and their operations are usually as interesting as the best fiction, and the scope of their operations is often important as an assurance of the quality of the finished products.

When motorists see the blue and white PURE seal at service stations, they probably never think of the huge organization employed in bringing these products from distant oil fields to the service stations where they are sold.

According to E. S. Willard, district manager for Pure Oil company products in this vicinity, the story of the growth and operations of the Pure Oil company is one of the romances of the oil industry.

It was back in 1914 that the Ohio Cities Gas company, a predecessor of the Pure Oil company, started drilling for gas on its leased property in Kanawha county, West Virginia.

Boring deep into the earth in search of new natural gas stores, the workers were suddenly thrilled when nature responded at the touch to the drill with a stream of golden crude—golden in color and in quality—the now famous Cabin Creek crude. And then the gas company entered the oil business. Soon the Ohio Cities Gas company had developed other oil fields and acquired many refineries.

A few years later the Ohio Cities Gas company took over the Pure Oil company of New Jersey, which had been in existence there for some 21 years. Shortly after this, the name of the Ohio Cities Gas company was changed to the Pure Oil company, as we know it today.

Since striking its first oil in the Cabin Creek field, the Pure Oil company has extended its production, until today the company has over 5,000 producing wells in different fields throughout nine states. By producing every type of crude found in this country, Pure Oil can choose the most desirable type from which to refine each product.

Today the company has seven modern refineries, strategically located with relation to producing fields and marketing territories. Two of these are in Ohio, at Heath, near Newark, and at Toledo. Producing fields are joined to refineries and refineries are brought closer to marketing areas by means of over 2,700 miles of solely or jointly owned underground pipelines.

Pure Oil also operates a fleet of ocean and inland terminals. By controlling each operation from producing wells to service station pumps, this company is able to control the quality of the petroleum products which you buy.

News In Brief

The U. S. has 22 motor cars for every 100 persons, as compared with 11 for Canada, 5 for France and Britain, 2 for Germany and 1 for Italy. . . . Phone and wire rates in 1937 were reduced $24 million by the F. C. C. . . . Electric output last year totalled 119 billion kwh, an increase of 8½ per cent over 1936 and 28 per cent over '29. . . . Approximately 82 per cent of r. r. operating revenues is derived from freight traffic. . . . The building of one freight car requires 1987 man-hours, or approximately one year's work for one man. . . . Based upon the new budget which President Roosevelt sent to congress last week, federal spending will be at the rate of $13,450 per minute during the next fiscal year, or about $20 million a day. . . . As reported by the chemical division of the Department of Commerce, chemical sales in 1937 were 16 per cent greater than in 1936.

1937 BUSINESS AVERAGE TOPS PREVIOUS YEAR DESPITE SLUMP

Despite the sharp decline recorded in the closing months of 1937, business operations were maintained at a greater average rate than in 1936, a result made possible by the continued high levels which characterized the period from January through May.

In fact, some divisions set new all-time records in the year under review, among the more important of which were gasoline consumption and the production of Diesel engines, cigarets, farm equipment, electric power and tractors.

As measured by the Administrative and Research Corporation's Weekly Index of Business Activity, general industry and trade averaged 91.68 as against 84.37 in 1936 (1926 - 100), an increase of 8.7 per cent. Whereas the greatest gains were made by the Index in the final months of 1936, the worst losses were sustained in the identical period of 1937 with the result that the fourth quarter witnessed business at only 82.2 as against 91.1 a year ago.

In the face of this year-end decline, automobile production rose 8.3 per cent in the year and building construction was higher by 9.3 per cent. Carloadings and electric power production were up 5.1 and 6.7 per cent, respectively. Bank debits scored an advance of 7.5 per cent. Steel activity, which declined to as low as 19 per cent of capacity in the final week of the year, averaged 72.4 per cent of capacity as against 68.4 per cent in 1936.

Thus did 1937 witness a complete reversal of business trend. From the prosperous activity of the early part of the year, it descended with unusual rapidity to the low points of December.

In retrospect it will long be remembered, if for nothing else, at least for its distinction of reverting to the age-old prosperity—recession cycle in an era of "planned economy."

AUTO TRAILERS

The production of automobile trailers—a new but growing industrial field—increased rapidly last year, sales statistics show. A total of 53,646 trailers, valued at $27,421,763 were sold. There were 357 manufacturing plants, employing thousands of men, engaged in the industry.

BICYCLES BACK

Bicycles are coming back into their own. Production of these two-wheeled vehicles in the United States last year reached 1,250,000 and this year, manufacturers say, this figure will probably be exceeded.

7 NEW FEATURES MARK SEARS' 1938 COLDSPOT REFRIGERATOR

With seven additional features, the new 1938 Coldspot electric refrigerator, a product of Sears, Roebuck and company, will make its appearance at Sears' Mansfield store, 37 West Third street, within a few weeks.

The new models are hailed as the greatest of all Coldspots. Powered by the Rotorite motor which was originally designed in 1922, the Coldspot unit is still basically the same although improvements through the years have increased its efficiency and durability many times.

While units built in 1931 are operating today as economically as ever, the 1938 Rotorite is fully 60 per cent more efficient than those models. Rotorite is superpowered yet in ordinary use it operates but a fraction of the time and cuts current costs to the minimum.

Among the new features of the 1938 Coldspot are an extra shelf that tilts back to accommodate the tallest of bottles; two interior lights that flood the interior of the box; indirectly illuminated control dials; all shelves of flat aluminum that won't tarnish or corrode; three-piece servex hostess set of 100 per cent vitreous china finished in delphinium blue and white; an extra large handi-bin, reserve storage space for special buys in fruits and vegetables; and the new speedex ice cube release, which releases a few cubes or a trayful as you need them, eliminating wasteful melting under the faucet.

Coldspots are available in six sizes, 4.2 cubic foot standard, 6.2 standard, 6.3 deluxe; 6.4 Four-star Super-six, 8.6 Super-eight and the 8.6 cubic foot Deluxe Super-eight.

Expert Says There's No Such Thing as 'Fattening Food.'

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Cheer up, you calory-conscious humans, Dr. James A. Tobey, New York City nutrition expert, asserted here that there was no such thing as a "fattening" food.

"It is the total of all the different foods consumed in the daily diet that may cause overweight," Dr. Tobey declared in an address prepared for delivery at the convention of the Ohio Bakers association, "but no single food is fattening in itself."

"Bread, rolls, pie, butter, milk, cream, ice cream, and cocoa do not contribute to obesity or unsightly and dangerous overweight when they are parts of a well-balanced diet," he added. "Bread and milk are, in fact, fundamental foods in any sensible reducing diet."

BRITAIN TRAINS OCEAN PILOTS

'Aeronautical University' to Develop Future Commanders.

LONDON—(AP)—Imperial Airways has opened an "aeronautical univeristy" to develop commanders for future transatlantic service.

Piupils will be experienced imperial pilots now serving with second class air navigators' licenses.

While in port the men will attend lectures on mathematics, nautical astronomy, compass work, dead reckoning navigation, meterology, international law and convention and signalling.

SAYS COLLEGIANS RUINING HEALTH

Dean Claims They Must Learn To Conserve Energy.

"There seems to be a general pride these days in physical exhaustion, in neglecting principles of diet, in disregarding the need for regular exercise and in ignoring remedial practices essential to the correction of minor physical handicaps, such as posture."

NEW HOMES

Based on population estimates for the next fifteen years, experts figure that about 5,000,000 new homes will have to be built in the United States to care for new families.

Salads Take Center Stage In Menus

By IRENE OBERLIN
Home Service Department Ohio Public Service Company.

To add interest, variety and food value to your menu try different combinations of the many salad ingredients that can easily be prepared and kept in your refrigerator until time for serving. The Tomato-Ham Loaf mold I am suggesting could be used as your main luncheon dish and accompanied with hard rolls and dessert makes quite a complete luncheon.

Tomato Aspic.

2 Tbsp. gelatin
¾ cup cold water
½ cup boiling water
4 cups tomatoes (fresh or canned)
1 Tbsp chopped onion
½ tsp. celery seed
2 or 3 whole cloves
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
2 tsp lemon juice

Soak the gelatin in cold water and dissolve in the boiling water Cook all the other ingredients 15 minutes, strain and add the lemon juice and gelatin.

2 pkgs Philadelphia cream cheese
1 cup cottage cheese
salt, pepper
1 Tbsp. gelatin soaked in ¼ cup water
3 cups ground ham
½ cup mayonnaise
2 Tbsp. minced celery
2 Tbsp green pepper.
1 tsp. mustard

Divide the tomato aspic in three parts and pour 1-3 in a greased mold—chill until firm Mix the cheese to cream well and season. Spread over the jellied aspic, making a second layer. Carefully pour the second portion over the cheese and allow to chill until firm. Mix the remaining ingredients with the ham, add the soaked gelatin dissolved over hot water. When the aspic is set spread the ham mixture over the aspic. For the final layer cover the ham with the remaining aspic and chill. Serve on curly endive

Shrimp and Olive Salad
Lemon Aspic.

1 Tsp gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1¾ cup hot water
2 Tsp. lemon juice
4 Tsp. vinegar
¼ tsp. salt

This may be used as a basic jelly for vegetables or fruit salads.

2 cups (cooked) shrimp
¾ cup stuffed olives
½ cup celery (cut fine)
Endive

Pour a little aspic in a mold and chill Arrange shrimp and olives in design and pour over just enough aspic to cover—chill—Mix the remaining olives—shrimp and celery with the remaining aspic and fill the mold Chill and when set serve with French dressing and garnish with endive

Avocado and Cherry Salad.

½ avocado for each person—Do not peel—marinate with French dressing. Pit the cherries and fill the cavity of pear. Serve on crisp lettuce with a very tart French dressing.

Frozen Fruit Salad.
(Refrigerator Tray—Time 2 to 3 Hours).

1 Tsp. gellatin
¼ cup water
3 Tsp lemon juice
½ cup sugar
1 cup diced pineapple
1 cup diced apricots
1 cup diced peahes
2 bananas (died)
1 cup mayonnoise
1 cup whipped cream

Soak the gellatin and dissolve over hot water. Combine the fruits, add the lemon juice and gelatin As mixture begins to congeal fold in the mayonnoise and whipped cream Do not freeze too hard. Serve with a cream dressing.

Tuna Fish Salad.

1 Tsp. gellatin
2 Tsp. cold water
2 cups Tuna fish
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup pickle relish
1 tsp salt
½ cup mayonnoise
Paprika

Soak gellatin in cold water five minutes and dissolve over boiling water Flake the tuna fish in pieces, add the celery. relish, salt, paprika and mayonnaise—add the dissolved gelatin and put in a buttered mold sprinkled with paprika. Chill until ready to serve.

Food Fit For Royalty

Use Products From Square Deal Stores

Standard grocery products, sold in Mansfield by the Square Deal food stores, comprising one of the city's major retail organizations, will be used in cooking demonstrations at the Gasco Food institute which opens tomorrow at the Ohio theater.

Headed by Ralph A. Schad, the Square Deal association operated about 60 retail stores in the Mansfield area and 25 more in Richland and surrounding counties.

The best of food products are sold at low prices under the Square Deal plan, because purchases of large quantities of goods enables the organization to obtain better prices and consequently to pass the savings on to its thousands of customers.

Square Deal stores have increased in number and service because of the satisfaction they have provided in Mansfield. Operated on a co-operative basis, with each store owner sharing the profits of the organization, the stores specialize in a certain "leader" product on different days of the week, each store featuring the same article at a uniform price.

BING AGAIN SHELLS OUT TO SAMMY

Snead Rolls Up Sub-Par 139 to Retain Title In Crosby Tourney.

DEL MAR, Cal.—(U.P.)—Bing Crosby's golfing party broke up today and for the second straight year young Sam Snead went home carrying the biggest slice of the $3,000 purse.

The youngster from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., won a total of $775—$500 for first honors in the open section of the tournament and $275 more for placing second with Doug McKinnon, Los Angeles amateur, in simultaneous pro-amateur competition. He grabbed up the booty with a spectacular round of 67 strokes, a new course record for the Rancho Santa Fe layout.

Jim Demaret of Houston, Tex., was out in the lead with a 68 when Snead started smacking his powerful drives. The fairways weren't flooded, but they were soggy from the moisture of two days of rain. But Sam rounded the turn one under par of 36, then slammed home in 32 for his 67 and an aggregate 139. His score was two strokes better than that of Jimmy Hines, Garden City, N. Y., pro, who won second money of $350 with 69-72-141; and three better than Demaret, who took a 74 and slipped to third spot and $250.

The biggest disappointment of the tourney was the poor showing of Jimmie Thomson who won the Los Angeles open with a record score. Thomson was within striking distance with a first-round 72, but took 42 putts for a 78 yesterday and finished far out of the money.

• • •

NOTES ON Crosby's tournament: The distinction of being the first professional disqualified for carrying more than 14 clubs in his bag goes to Leonard Dodson, Mumford, Mo. . . . after a good first round Dodson discovered a trick collapsible putter, that an inventive admirer had given him years ago, folded up in the pocket of his bag and immediately disqualified himself . . . Lawson Little also disqualified himself in this tournament . . . the former amateur king signed an incorrect score card . . . The finest shot of the two-day meet was made by host Bing Crosby . . . on the short 14th Bing laid his tee shot four feet from the pin for what seemed a certain birdie two . . . while the gallery held its breath the crooner stepped up to the ball for his putt . . . then, on his backswing, his club bit the ball and knocked it ten feet further away from the hole . . . Guy Kibbee, svelte Hollywood comedian, feels the 14 club rule is very unfair to players like himself . . . "I have played golf for 30 years with only seven clubs in my bag," Kibbee moaned yesterday, "and the extra seven I had to add to my collection confused me no end."

Travels Tuesday

Mansfield High Quint Makes Only Appearance of Week at Sandusky.

THE basketballers of Mansfield high school will make their only appearance on the court this week on Tuesday night when they travel to Sandusky.

The Tygers will be idle after this game until a week from Friday when Cleveland Glenville performs on the Mansfield boards.

Topples Shelby.

Mansfield will go into the Sandusky game with a record of four straight victories. Coach Russ Murphy's men lengthened their string on the home court Saturday night when they toppled Shelby the second time this season.

The Tygers hung up their biggest score of several seasons as they routed the Whippets, 51 to 16, before a fair-sized crowd.

In addition to presenting the finest shooting exhibition of the season, the Tygers also made their best defensive showing as they limited the visitors to three baskets.

Shelby scored two of the three field goals in the second period, and the other was not recorded until the fourth period when Stevens took a long, desperate pass over the heads of the Tygers to dribble in for the score.

Two Held Scoreless.

Coach Murphy used every player on the squad, and only two failed to score. It was while a reserve lineup was in the game in the fourth period that the Tygers put on their biggest scoring spree.

Led by Don Finefrock, who accounted for two goals and a free throw the Tygers tallied 17 points in the fourth period.

Mansfield jumped into a 13 to 4 lead in the first period, but Shelby held the Tyger guns in fair fashion in the next quarter, the half ending with the Men of Murphy on top by a 20 to 9 margin.

A free throw by Hazelwood in the last second was the only point scored by Shelby in the third chapter in which the Tygers hung up 14 points to hold a 34 to 10 advantage.

Dave Shelley, a reserve forward, led the scoring for Mansfield with 10 points, and Elmer Dials was next high with nine.

Split Prelims.

In the preliminary games, the Mansfield reserves defeated the Shelby seconds, 24 to 11, with Herpich scoring 14 of the winners' points, and the No. 2 reserve squad fell before the St. Johns church team, 32 to 18.

Achiu, Stratton Match Grips In Top Armory Match Tonight

WALTER STRATTON and Walter Achiu today awaited the bell that will send them into action in the headline bout of the Quality club's mat program at the Armory tonight.

This match is expected to develop into an interesting struggle.

Stratton was originally scheduled to meet George Becker, but it was necessary for Promoter Tim Nolan to replace him on account of his return to his home in New York where his mother is seriously ill.

Achiu, who replaces Becker on the card, is the Hawaiian wrestler who is making a hit wherever he appears. He is a former Dayton university football star, and played pro football with the Portsmouth Spartans before turning to the wrestling game.

The opener at 8:30 p. m. pitting Francis Steele of Plymouth against R. R. (Railroad) Routt, provides fans with a match of more than passing interest. With everything to gain and nothing to lose, Steele is attempting to crash the "big time" with a victory over Routt.

RAMS FACE BUSY WEEK

Madison Plays Three Games; Ontario Assumes Lead, Defeats Lucas.

Madison high school's Rams will have little chance to catch their breaths this week.

Coach Al Fendrick's basketeers are hosts to Lucas Tuesday, entertain Bellville Friday and travel to Shiloh Saturday. The Tuesday and Friday games are county league affairs, and the first one is particularly important as both clubs still retain title possibilities.

Plays at Ontario.

In the other county league tilts Friday, Lexington performs at Ontario and Butler invades Union. Lexington plays at Bellville Saturday.

Ontario and Lucas were the only county teams in action Saturday, and the Warriors stepped a half game in front of Butler for the league lead by turning back Gil Weikert's men, 30 to 14, on the Ontario court.

Ontario held the lead all the way as it limited Greulich, the league's leading scorer, to two baskets.

Coach Orv Kibler used 10 men in hanging up the victory, and Matt Hager and Prion, with eight and seven points, respectively, led the scoring. Greulich and Crawford scored four points apiece for the losers.

Coast After Rest.

Jumping into a 7 to 3 lead in the first period, the Warriors held a 21 to 7 advantage at the half. They coasted in the second half, although lengthening their victory margin two points.

Lucas annexed the victory in the preliminary, stopping the Ontario reserves, 17 to 11.

75-Year-Old Farmer Claims Court Crown.

TIPTON, Ind. —(U.P.)— A 75-year-old farm worker issued a challenge to the nation's basketball stars today—one or all—to meet him for the "free throw" championship of the courts. James A. Shuck, whose grandchildren have filled Prairie township basketball score books for 30 years, and who first felt a basketball in his hands when he was 62, boasted 215 free throws without a miss in 1925.

"The next year," he said, "I pitched 592 out of 600 tries in one day. The other day I put in 24 out of 25." Residents of the rural neighborhood and the coach of the township high school have affirmed Shuck's claims.

Elks, Sports Meet In Headline Game

Yuncker Team's Record Is Threatened In Tonight's Tilt at M. H. S.

THE sharpshooting Elks aggregation is in an excellent position to further its chances of annexing the second round championship of the City Class A basketball league tonight when it clashes with the undefeated Yuncker Sports team in the headliner on the week's program at Senior high.

The Sports club was the only outfit to place a blemish on the Elks' opening round record. The Yuncker team downed them on the opening night by a two-point margin.

Elks Strengthened.

Freddie Lewis and George Hummel have been added to the Elks' lineup since and their appearance has strengthened the club considerable. Lewis has been one of the offensive stars since joining the squad.

For the important tussle tonight, the Elks will probably have Adam Brandt, and Russ Hoff, Gene Brandon, Noel Morgan and Lewis in the starting lineup. Jerry King will have several first-class reserves available to toss in the battle. Among them Jim Wallace and Hummel.

The Westinghouse Electric quintet will make its first bid for the second round title by taking on the Mack Pure Oils in the opener at 7:30.

Westies Favored.

Vern Jones' outfit has been unable to click with any regularity, but will enter the game as a slight favorite to topple the Oilmen.

The Pure Oils failed to win a single game in the opening round and are expected to "shoot the works" against the Electrics.

Joe DiMaggio Named "Player of the Year."

FAILS TO MATERIALIZE

Meeting Called to Form New League Postponed Indefinitely.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Athletic directors who had been invited to attend a meeting of a proposed new conference here Sunday today shouted "signals over." The meeting, to which the Universities of Akron, Dayton and Toledo; Butler of Indianapolis and Marshall college, purportedly had pledged themselves failed to materialize.

Interested parties reached by long distance after the directors failed to put in an appearance said the new conference was still a possibility but offered vague answers as to why they failed to meet as scheduled.

OLDS SCORE 3253 TOTAL

Sonny Meder Compiles Games of 224, 278 and 267 For a Sparkling 769.

Doug Miller's Oldsmobiles applied the pressure in their Northern Ohio Traveling league match with the Liederkranz club at the Meder alleys Sunday.

The Motors socked out a 3253 for their second highest total of the season as they took three decisions from their fellowtownsmen in fairly easy fashion.

Featuring the match was the bowling of Clarence (Sonny) Meder, who spilled 769 pins to set the scoring pace. After opening with a 224, the 20-year-old pin phenom followed with a sparkling 278, and then finished with an equally brilliant 267.

Bill Donnellan smashed out a 666 to lead the Liederkrang to a 2923 total. Clyde Ritter bounced out a 617 and Applan pulled through a 616.

Success of Ice Carnival Emphasizes Popularity of Skating In Mansfield

THE popularity of competitive skating in the city was emphasized Saturday when more than 200 participated in the ice carnival staged for Mansfield high school students by the "Y" association at North lake park before a crowd of 1,000.

It was the first event of its kind ever staged in Mansfield, and the success of the venture has encouraged school officials to make the carnival an annual affair.

Few of the race winners won without challenge, and, in the majority of the events, the results were doubtful until the contestants flew across the finish line at break-neck speed.

The only double winners was a girl, Mary McBride, who won the 50 and 220-yard sprints. Mariann Gray was second in the 50, with Jeanette Kelly, third.

The sprints in the boys' division were won by Truman Clark, who took the honors in the century and Fred Kemble, 220-yard dash victor. Jim Stough and Kemble were second and third, respectively, in the 100, Stough and Harold Duda trailed the same Kemble into the tape in the longer distance.

Honors in the boys' 440 was annexed by Earl Bates, football player, with Frank Lail, second, and Charles Bates, third, and Grant Clark won the strolling miles test. William Smith was second, with Leonard Burkholder, third.

The 100 mile championship was won by Earl Bates, who finished ahead of Murray Bullitt and Don Van Geem, winner of the 50-yard back-skate event. John Spicer was second in the back-skate.

Richard Nicholas exhibited a number of difficult maneuvers to win the figure skating title. William Moffett took second honors, with Jack Spicer, third.

In the other event for girls, 100-yard dash, Betty Krupp was the victor, with Mariann Huck, second, and Dorothy Burk Blackstone, third.

Medals were awarded for the first three places in the events.

BLADE BITS: Spending virtually all day Friday and Saturday morning preparing the ice for the carnival, Director Harry Mohock figures he was amply repaid for his efforts by the success of the affair . . . Improved skating facilities in the city and more carnivals of this type might aid in the solution of the junior delinquency problem, Norman Kellogg, who was a very busy clerk of course Saturday, believes. . . . Kellogg is one of the real skating enthusiasts in the city. . . . H. W. Arlin, school board president, was a spectator . . . on skates . . . J. Merton Holcomb's hand was on hand for the event, and so were the baton wielders, who put on a nifty exhibition despite the cold. . . . Spills were plentiful, but nobody suffered anything worse than embarrassment. . . . Little Jack Spicer was one of the classiest skaters on the ice. . . . A hockey game between picked team held the crowd to the finish. . . . In addition to Kellogg, the officials who assisted Mohock were Mann, Herman Bishop, J. W. Dunn, Roy Bowersock, Bill Zerby and Bill Keffe, who served as starter . . . Neil Ruhl and "Chet" Swank did their bit to inform the spectators and contestants of developments at the loud speaker. . . . A spotlight for night exhibitions will be erected at the park within a few days. . . . The Boy Scouts are slated to hold a carnival on the park ice Saturday.

COPPERS AIDED BY ADVANCE IN SCRAP PRICES

Shares Also Spurred by Higher Export Quotations as List Leaders Falter.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stock market leaders backed away as profit realizing appeared in today's early dealings.

Selling was light, however, and losses generally were in small fractions near the second hour.

Coppers were aided by an advance in the scrap metal and higher exports prices. Improvement in the staple followed a brisk upturn in London quotations. Bonds and commodities were a trifle uneven.

Market analysts studied the weekly survey of the magazine "Steel" which said hesitancy seemed to be the keynote in this field, with potential buyers holding off pending a more definite sign that general economic conditions have changed for the better.

The review found steel demand from the automobile sector had increased modestly and it was thought agricultural machinery makers, in view of current satisfactory production, would soon become more important purchasers. Heavy railroad orders were looked for by some observers when the freight rate question is settled.

CONTEND ART OF DINING WANING

products, brings to the city women writers who have a combined following of 22,000,000 women readers, and who, through their readers, keep an inquiring finger on the pulse of the American home.

After a breakfast at the Mansfield-Leland hotel this morning, the group was taken to the Westinghouse auditorium where I. W. Clark, manager of the kitchen planning division, outliner the objectives of the 1938 clinic.

One of the interesting features was a discussion on the increased demand for dining facilities in the kitchen. This demand increased 20 per cent last year alone, according to Clark, so that today 75 per cent of all kitchen plans must include a breakfast corner.

Mary Davis Gillies of McCall's Magazine, pointed out that American children today are growing up with the idea that the kitchen is the proper place to dine, and that as a result the art of dining, as it was practiced a quarter of a century ago, and the art of dinner table conversation, is rapidly disappearing.

A subject which proved unusually interesting was that of standardized kitchens, introduced by Clarke. In presenting it, he said that five years of research had gone into the idea, and that it had been investigated from the angles of cost and service.

He suggested a series of standardized kitchens, which might be applied to practically all types of homes, especially those that are built in the future. He outlined 20 standard plans, ranging in price from $653 to $6,000 and including all kitchen equipment. So that women, in planning homes, could order their kitchens by number, according to the price she could pay and the size of her home.

This would reduce materially the cost while increasing the amount of equipment; and would mean simplifying kitchen work, Clark said. The lowered costs would be largely through standardized cabinets, which are now a major item of cost in building a kitchen.

R. E. Imhoff, Westinghouse sales manager, and Reese Mills, manager of range and water heater sales department, assisted Clark in opening the clinic.

Take Up Refrigeration.

This afternoon's session was to be devoted largely to refrigeration and kitchen lighting, with R. C. Cosgrove, manager of household refrigeration sales, Miss Edna Sprakman, director of refrigeration home economics, and Miss Myrtle Fashbender, of the Westinghouse Lamp company, Bloomfield, N. J., as speakers.

Social plans for the visiting writers today included a tea at 3:45 in the Westinghouse Institute rooms, and a dinner-dance at the Leland ballroom at 7:45 this evening.

Among the widely known women writers and editors who are in attendance at the meeting are Mrs. Gillies, Fae Huttenlocher, Better Homes and Gardens, Des Moines; Ada Bessie Swan, Woman's Home Companion, New York City; Miss Virginia Hart, House and Garden, New York City; Katharine Fisher, director of Good Housekeeping Institute, New York City; Kathleen Robertson, McCalls Magazine, New York City; Grace Pennock, Ladies Home Journal, New York City; Gertrude Smith, Women's Home Companion, New York City.

Eloise Davison, New York Herald Tribune, New York City; Julia Bourne, The American Home, New York; Esther Kimmel, Pictorial Review, New York; Edith S. Coombs, Canadian Westinghouse company, Hamilton, Ontario; Edna Wilson, Master Reporting Service, Chicago; Vera B. Meecham, Electricity on the Farm, New York; Bessie Rowe, The Farmers Wife, St. Paul; Ella Cushman, Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y.; Christine Frederick Greenlawn, Long Island, and Ida Migliario and Julia Kiene, Capper Publications, Topeka.

Roland Cole, of the Electrical Dealer magazine, Chicago, and L. E. Moffett, Electrical Merchandising, New York City, together with two representatives of power companies, also are attending the clinic. Clara Zillessen of the Philadelphia Electric company, and Emma M. Tighe of the Boston Edison company, are guests.

WORKS AT 100

Railroader Has Been Employed By Same Line 83 Years.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — (AP) — John M. Horan, who claims to be the oldest active railroad employe in the United States, worked as usual today, little concerned over his approaching 100th birthday.

It was 83 years ago that the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company offered horan his first job, the task of keeping woodburning locomotives supplied with fuel. Today, Horan is still working for the same railroad.

FIRES AT POLICE

Driver Hunted After Fleeing Auto Leaving Bullet Trail.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Capt. George Mingle of the state highway patrol said today that Fostoria police were attempting to determine the ownership of a coupe whose driver escaped on foot last night after firing several shots at policemen who stopped to question him on a routine check.

must be limited to legitimate business requirements.

When Blum announced his failure to form a cabinet, the Communist party issued a statement which said:

"The formation of the government envisaged by M. Blum was rendered impossible by demands of Paul Reynaud (former fiance minister and moderate centrist) who wanted to impose the presence, in the cabinet, of elements linked with terror and Fascism."

Tasks confronted a new government included: Ending widespread strikes by bringing capital and labor together; strengthening the franc; reducing of the treasury deficit and rebuilding French influence among central European allies which are drifting toward Germany and Italy.

After Bonnet's failure to form a government to succeed that of Chautemps, President Lebrun conferred with Chautemps and Albert Sarraut before deciding on Blum. Chautemps and Edouard Daladier had declined the assignment.

SPECIAL PAROLE JURY CONVENES

11 Men, 4 Women on Panel as Reformatory Inquiry Gets Underway.

the parole board. According to Judge Huston, all replied in the negative.

Naylor testified once before the Franklin county special grand jury, which recessed last week, and his name was mentioned by a number of witnesses there in connection with parole negotiations.

From paroled reformatory inmates who were questioned in Cleveland at the request of the attorney general's office, investigators obtained stories of payments for paroles from the reformatory here, but all such information was given "second hand," from inmates who asserted they knew of other inmates who had paid for paroles.

A number of former reformatory inmates have appeared voluntarily at the county prosecutor's office, and have been told that they should hold themselves in readiness to testify before the grand jury.

The Franklin county jury, which called Judge Harrison Jewell, parole board chairman, "temperamentally unfit to serve on the board," was accused by Judge Jewell of failing to back up its findings with facts. He referred, however, to the recommendations of the jury concerning the dismissal of two state parole investigators.

Concluding his charge, Judge Huston pointed out that "the jury will not only be interested in the investigation of criminal charges, but the manner of management of the reformatory, the condition of prisoners and the conduct of any individual in an administrative capacity as it affects the institution (reformatory).

First Witnesses Tuesday.

Hurley said no witnesses would be called this afternoon, but requested Sheriff E. P. Long to begin immediately to subpoena witnesses to appear before the jury, beginning tomorrow morning. At noon today the sheriff had not been given any subpoenas.

The afternoon session was expected to be occupied with instructions to the jurors by Hurley and Heisenroeder.

Hurley declined to say how many witnesses would be called, adding that "the number will depend entirely on what develops when the probe is opened."

Among the witnesses who are expected to appear before the special jury will be paroled inmates of the reformatory and possibly persons connected with the institution in administrative capacities.

Sheriff Long and Chief of Police Meade K. Bates were asked several weeks ago by Atty. General Duffy to locate former inmates of the reformatory in Mansfield and Richland county in the event that they are needed as witnesses before the jury.

Judge Huston appointed J. V. Finney, Mansfield as court bailiff during the reformatory sessions. Finney served 12 years as clerk in municipal court at Mansfield and county clerk of courts.

Two Stenographers.

Miss Martha Gerstmeyer, common pleas court stenographer, and Miss Lois Addlesperger, secretary, to Atty A. S. Beach, were named stenographers by the court. A complete transcript of evidence and testimony will be made during the investigation, Judge Huston said.

Cost of the investigation, which will be paid from the Richland county court fund, was estimated by Judge Huston at more than $450 per week.

County officials feared that regular court activities in the county during 1938 would be hampered if the special jury is in session three weeks or more, requiring a sizeable outlay of county funds.

Members of Special Grand Jury

Here are the members of the special Richland county grand jury, chosen by Judge C. H. Huston today to investigate charges against the Ohio parole system as it affects Mansfield Reformatory. The jury, chosen this morning, was to hold its first session at the Reformatory this afternoon. First witnesses were to be called tomorrow morning.

William F. Dick, Plymouth township, farmer.

Mrs. Henrietta Hayner, 62 Bartley avenue, housewife.

W. O. Wiles, Monroe township farmer.

Mrs. Grace Lee Burns, 189 West Second street, housewife.

Selby Cole, Shelby, steel worker.

Mrs. Edith Funk, 353 South Main street, housewife.

HEADS BOARD

Rinehart Elected President of County School Board.

John W. Shook of Mifflin township was named vice president and C. G. Tugend, Worthington township, and Floyd Hunt, Lucas, were sworn in as new members of the board. Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, is clerk.

Elected to the board in November, Tugend and Hunt replace A. W. Lantz of Perry township and W. C. Garber of Bellville.

Mr. Lantz, who is 80 years old, served on the county board for 18 years and was not a candidate for re-election.

FORUM HEARS COLLEGE PREXY

Future of Democracy Depends on Philosophies Adopted By Youth, Dr. Thomas Says.

"This is a world in which many new things are challenging youth for development, and the day of the pioneer has not passed," Dr. Thomas said.

He emphasized the importance of learning how to live with others, adding that the labor strife in the nation today shows the need of a better understanding of human relationships.

Dr. Thomas, who spoke following the weekly youth forum, was introduced by W. L. Miller, superintendent of Mansfield schools.

Praising the forum movement of the Mansfield churches, Miller pointed out that the opportunities of today "may be the assets or liabilities of tomorrow."

"The forum provides for the discovery of youth—it enables young people to make assets of opportunity rather than liabilities," he added.

The worship program was conducted by W. E. Wygant, jr., Marjorie Ann Hawkins and Mary Louise Balliet. Lawrence S. Frank, minister of music at the Baptist church, was at the organ.

The next meeting of the Youth Forum will be held Jan. 30 at the United Presbyterian church when H. W. Arlin, supervisor of industrial relations at the Westinghouse plant, will discuss "Youth In Relation to Industry." There will be no regular meeting of the forum next Sunday because of the baccalaureate service for the mid-year class of the Senior High school at the First Lutheran church.

INFANT SON BURIED

HUNT GIRL, 18, AND SUITOR, 57

Pennsy Police Fear Pair May Be Trapped In Snow.

KANE, Pa.—(U.P.)—The fate of 18-year-old Florence Williams and her 57-year-old married suitor was hidden today in the snow-covered mountains of northwestern Pennsylvania.

The girl disappeared last Tuesday, police said, with C. C. Vandermark, whose wife is 80 years old. Vandermark's automobile was found abandoned at the end of a country road, and investigation disclosed that he had spoken of running away and living in a mountain cave.

State Trooper Andrew Hichenko, in command of a searching party of approximately 100 men, said that Vandermark and Miss Williams had purchased supplies indicating that they had planned a long stay in the mountains.

Mrs. Hahn's Counsel Seeks to Save Her From Chair.

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — Counsel for Anna Marie Hahn went before the court of appeals here today in an effort to save the blond matron from death in the electric chair on March 10 for the poison murder of Jacob Wagner.

Hiram Bolsinger, sr., charged in his plea before Judges Francis M. Hamilton, Stanley Matthews and Simon Ross that Mrs. Hahn had been insufficiently informed by the state of the charges against her and that collateral evidence of other deaths than Wagner's should not have been allowed.

The arguments were virtually the same as Bolsinger had given repeatedly in objections and motions during the trial last fall.

1937 RECEIPTS SET RECORD AT COUNTY OFFICE

Recorder Reports Revenue of $11,790, Gain of $1,400 Over Previous Year.

Receipts at the Richland county recorder's office in 1937 set a new high at $11,790, an increase of $1,424 over the office income for the preceding year, Recorder Howard P. Wenning reported today.

The office showed a surplus of more than $3,000 over the 1937 operating expenses, Wenning said.

Seven months of the year produced receipts above $1,000 each, with April establishing a new monthly record at $1,195. The year's income more than doubled total receipts in 1933 which amounted to only $5,221.

20,000 Chattel Mortgages.

Chattel mortgages, producers of a large part of the recorder's office income, increased from 17,552 in 1936 to 20,664 last year, Wenning's report showed. While figures on the number of deeds filed were not available today, it was believed they would also show a marked increase over any previous year.

The office income, derived mainly from fees collected for recording mortgages and deeds, reached a peak during the spring and summer months when automobile sales were highest, Wenning said.

LOSES IN SALE

County Auctions Off Lots For $404—$787 Due in Taxes.

Although four lots sold at sheriff's sale Saturday at the courthouse brought more than their appraised value, the county lost $383 in back taxes on three of them, located in Shelby.

The three lots, two of them involved in a foreclosure action against Leo McGaw and the other in a suit against Frank E. Mayer, sold for a total of $404. They were appraised at $350 and were sold to collect $787 in delinquent taxes.

R. E. Marquis, Shelby, purchased the Mayer property for $152, while the two McGaw lots went to W. J. Coleman, Shelby, on his bid of $252.

A property on Dickson avenue, Mansfield, which figured in a foreclosure action brought against Anthony Braras by the Home Owners Loan corporation, was bid in by the HOLC for $5,430. Appraised at $5,100, it was sold to satisfy a judgment for $5,321.

Old Age Security Rate to Continue Two More Years

The rate of contributions to the old age insurance fund under the Social Security act will remain at one per cent during 1938 and 1939, R. G. Mish, manager of the Mansfield district of the social security board, said today.

"This year and next the employe and employer must continue to pay one per cent each of the amount of the worker's earnings into the old age fund," Mish said.

Under the plan, the rate of contribution will increase one-half per cent in 1940, with the amount deducted from the wages of all workers in occupations covered by the Social Security act.

Beginning this year, however, the combined contributions of the worker and employer will be sent to the federal collector of internal revenue each quarter instead of monthly. Contributions for the first quarter of 1938 are due not later than April 30, Mish added.

EXTENDS WATER BILL DEADLINE

City Gives East Side Consumers Until Jan. 25 to Pay.

East side water consumers will have until Jan. 25 to pay their water and sewer rental bills, without being assessed a 10 per-cent penalty, Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the water, sewer and garbage department said today.

"After conferring with Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert, we have agreed to extend payment of the water and sewer bills until Jan. 25, before adding the usual 10 per cent penalty," he said.

Lingafelter added that 3,000 accounts, or nearly 30 per cent of the 10,000 bills sent out Jan. 2, were still unpaid.

Pep Up! Be Popular!

People with "go" are always the most popular. Yet the secret of abounding energy is often merely a matter of keeping regular. For tiredness, headaches, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, mental depression can all be caused by constipation.

Truly, proper elimination is all-important to your well-being. So if more than one day goes by without it, assist Nature. Use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This laxative is extremely mild. And Olive Tablets are marvelously effective because they stimulate the liver's secretion of bile without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs.

Let Olive Tablets help safeguard your welfare and pep. 15¢, 30¢ and 60¢ at all druggists, everywhere.

APPEALS COURT HEARS 2 CASES

Faces Light Session When It Convenes Here Tuesday; One of Suits Filed by County.

With only two cases scheduled for hearing, a brief session is in prospect for the Fifth District court of appeals which convenes at 9 a. m. tomorrow at the Richland county courthouse.

First on the schedule, set up by C. A. McKinley, assignment clerk, is the appeal of Richland county commissioners from a $1,500 verdict returned against them several weeks ago in a damage suit brought by the late Mrs. Nora Elizabeth Olds of near Lexington.

Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott and Atty. J. V. Will, representing the commissioners, appealed the case after the county's motion for a new trial was overruled. A jury in common pleas court decided against the commissioners following a second trial of the $10,000 damage case early last fall. In the first hearing of the case the verdict was for the defendants.

In the other case, Mrs. Mary Etta Gatton, Mansfield, seeks $2,900 damages from the Erie Railroad company for injuries she allegedly received when a car in which she was riding struck a concrete post at the Erie underpass on Park avenue west road. Her claim for damages was denied in a common pleas court ruling. She is represented by Attys. Lewis Brucker and H. M. Rust, while Attys. Henkel and Gongwer are counsel for the defendant.

THE PIPER'S TUNE

By JOSEPH McCORD
(Copyright 1938)

CHAPTER III

She had a half-formed intention of dressing and going out, but a spring thunderstorm gave her a good excuse for a much-needed nap. After that, her trunk put in an appearance, and there were clothes to unpack and hang up. When that task was finished, Caradad discovered that she was hungry. But she decided to forego eating, that she might do justice to Terry's dinner. She wondered where he would take her.

Had she but known, that problem vexed her host with increasing discomfort as the afternoon waned. He looked forward with genuine pleasure to a further visit with Caradad, but the matter of entertaining her was something else again. With almost any other young woman of his acquaintance, there would have been no problem. A late dinner somewhere, drifting from one place of bright lights to another, drinking rather too much, dancing, ending up in a night club. The program would more or less have taken care of itself. Most small-town girls would be thrilled by something of the sort, but Dad Vardell would be different. Terry knew that she did not smoke, there wasn't one chance in a thousand she would have learned to drink, although she could not have had a more expert instructor in the art of handling whisky than old John Vardell. It was a fair bet that she had learned to dance while away at school, but Terry wouldn't bank too much on that. Well, there were always the movies.

Uncertain, but determined to play safe, Mr. Cantine donned a conservative suit of blue serge. After he had announced himself over the house phone, Terry lighted a cigarette and strolled nonchantly in the direction of the elevators. What would she look like?

He gave an unconscious sigh of relief when he saw her hurrying to meet him. Caradad was in white. A coat and skirt of the simplest fashion, a small white hat pulled down on one side of her brown head, white gloves and white bag. The costume made her appear very girlish, was Terry's first thought, smaller, even.

She was smiling as she hurried to him, but there was a trace of anxiety in her brown eyes. "I never thought to ask where we are going, Terry—what sort of a place, I mean. Will I do?"

Terry looked down into her upturned face, his head tipped at a critical angle. There was a quizzical light in his gray eyes.

'I still think I like you better in boots But you do look sweet enough to eat—Dad."

"I've been wondering where you would like to dine," Terry ventured. "I don't suppose you have any place in mind."

"Of course not. Have you?" Caradad said.

"Well . . . ."

"If you haven't." Caradad interrupted seriously, "I'd like to go to some quiet place where I can have meat and potatoes, and where they will let us talk as long as we like. I took a nap this afternoon and missed my lunch. Just now, I feel as though I could eat a steak as big as a saddle blanket."

Terry threw back his head and emitted one of his old-time, ringing laughs. "Fine!" he chuckled. "I'm in the same shape. Starved And I know of a grill where the chef does a fair job with a steak. We'll try it, if you like. It's six or seven blocks from here, though. Will fainting, nature let you hoof it, or shall we ride?

"I want to walk and see things."

Terry's spirits continued to rise with so satisfactory a working-out of the dinner program and he exerted himself to be entertaining during their stroll, pointing out places of interest, answering questions and helping his guest to get her bearings in a general way.

The restaurant met with Caradad's complete approval. She exclaimed over the low ceiling with its heavy beams, the dark wood panels serving as a background for colorful plates and tankards, the small tables with their snowy linen and bright silver. Best of all, an open grill, glowing and cheerful. Savory odors of broiling meat

As Terry seated her in a dining nook that was without near neighbors at the moment, he asked "Care for something to put an edge on that appetite?"

Caradad wrinkled her small nose thoughtfully. "I don't believe so." she decided. "It just might work the other way. But you get whatever you like."

Terry took charge of the ordering with practiced ease. He discarded the elaborate menu and outlined his wants, deferring to Caradad only in the matter of minor preferences. His explicit directions for broiling the steaks impressed even the impassive waiter, and roused Caradad's undisguised admiration. He ordered one dry martini.

While they awaited results, Caradad still appeared deeply engrossed in her surroundings and Terry studied her curiously. He yet was finding it difficult to adjust himself to a realization that this slim, white-clad young woman across the table was the Dad of other days. She did look somewhat more familiar than when he saw her at the station. It might be that dress. Or it might be her animated expression . . . even the little star on her cheek glowed faitly. Odd to see a girl without any make-up . . . none on her mouth, at least.

Suddenly, he knew.

"Where are your specs?" he asked bluntly.

"Oh!" Caradad gave a little start. "I came away without them! I do that . . ."

'Something new, are they?"

"Yes. But they shouldn't be . . . eye-strain, the doctor told me. I can see quite all right at a distance, but not so well close up. It makes me squint. I'm supposed to be wearing them all the time.

"Must be a nuisance. Shall I cut your meat for you?"

"I can manage," she laughed. "Just give me time and opportunity. I hate the things, anyway."

"Dad?"

"Yes?"

HERO WORSHIP OF WAR LORDS ENDS AS CHINA DEFENDS SELF

SHANGHAI —(U.P.)— "Glorifying the Chinese general" is an "old Chinese custom" that has gone out of fashion in the present Sino-Japanese conflict, as the entire nation and its scores of war lords fight shoulder to shoulder for national existence.

Personalities have been submerged entirely, with the exception of General and Madame Chiang Kai-Shek and a few commanders whose names flash across the news pages for a few days and disappear. This unusual situation is the result of government policy and personal preference of the army commanders themselves.

Consequently, newspaper correspondents have found it impossible to find any subjects for glorification. The Chinese people, who love to worship heroes, also miss an outstanding hero in this war.

Gen. Ma Recalled.

The hostilities in Manchuria during 1931 produced Gen. Ma Chan-shan, noted for his drooping whiskers as well as military prowess. Gen. Ma was catapulted from obscurity as a small-potato bandit chief to world fame as the defender of Mnchuria

The Sino-Japanese hostilities around Shanghai in the following year was personified by lean Gen. Tsai Ting-kai and his 19th Route Army, until his name become synonymous with Chinese resistance to the Japanese.

In the present war, however, not one name has emerged as a great hero to satisfy the whims of the hero worshipers. There have been heroes aplenty in the fighting so far, but every one has sought to hide his light behind a bushel.

China's most colorful figures are remaining in the background as much as possible. The "Christian General" Feng Yu-hsiang is reported to be leading the Chinese forces on the Tientsin-Pukow railway front, but it is not possible even to confirm his whereabouts.

Few Facts Available.

General Tsai Ting-kai and Ma Chan-shan are "somewhere on the front" but nothing more is known. The "Ironsides Commander" Chang Fa-k'uei was reported to be in command of the Shanghai sector but it was never officially announced.

Gen. "Hundred Victory" Wei Lihuang reluctantly talked for a few minutes with the United Press correspondent on the Shansi front. He said every Chinese soldier was a hero, not the commander. The whereabouts of the "Young Marshal" Chang Hsueh-liang is a mystery even to his associates

The "Big Three" of South China, Li Tsung-jen, Pai Chung-hsi and Chen Chi-tang, are scattered widely, nobody knows just where. The trio of erstwhile Hopei military leaders, Sung Cheh-yuan, Chang Tse-chung and Liu Juming, after their debacle in the Peiping-Tientsin-Kalgan area, received additional publicity only when they were sent elsewhere for punishment.

Yorkshire pudding may be served as a complement for roast beef or—if it is sweetened—as a dessert.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Your Money's Worth

The value of money depends on what you use it for. A silver dollar makes an excellent paper weight and is fine for throwing across rivers. A $5 bill will light any cigar or start a fire in the furnace. Or you might even use currency to paper the wall. The value of a loan, likewise, depends on how it is used. Loans that are made for such worthy purposes as balancing the budget, meeting emergencies, re-establishing lost credit, driving a bargain, taking advantage of opportunities are the kind of loans made every day at The City Loan. They afford you your money's worth.

GEORGE DANGERFIELD SCHEDULED TO SPEAK

Mansfield Federation of Women Will Present Noted British Lecturer On "England: 1910-1937" Thursday Morning.

AS ANOTHER one of the out-standing lecturers to be brought to Mansfield this season, the Mansfield Federation of Women is presenting George Dangerfield, British speaker and editor. Mr. Dangerfield will speak here Thursday at 11 a. m. at the Madison theater. The lecture will be followed by a luncheon at the Women's club. His subject is "England 1910-1937."

The speaker, who was born in Newbury, England, in 1906, the son of a minister, attended Hertford college, Oxford and later taught in Chechoslovakia. In 1930 he came to the United States to become assistant editor in the publishing house of Brewer & Warren.

Mr. Dangerfield is the author of "The Strange Death of Liberal England," and "Bengal Mutiny." He contributes to outstanding magazines and newspapers in this country.

For the lecture to be given here Mr. Dangerfield will present a picture of England by portraying certain aspects of English political history and by discussing the contributions of her major leaders. The talk begins with the violent pre-war death of old-fashioned liberalism and illuminates the change to the liberalism of faith as against that of necessity.

Mr. Dangerfield also considers the strange pre-war psychology of England, the coalition government, the conservative and labor alignment, Socialism and liberalism, the coal crisis and the general strike. Turning to the men of the country he discusses such famous leaders as Lord Asquith, Lloyd George, Stanley Baldwin and Ramsay MacDonald.

Reservations for the luncheon which follows the lecture should be made at the Women's club.

JUNIOR MUSIC CLUBS TO PRESENT PROGRAM

PLANS FOR a joint meeting of Mansfield's three music study clubs were announced this week-end by Mrs. J. C. Klinger who is one of the advisers for the Junior Music Study club. The other two clubs participating are the Music Study club and the Crescendo club.

At a recent meeting the Junior club made arrangements for presenting the program with the aid of the Crescendo club before the other organization at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Feb. 7.

During this meeting, Mrs. Edward D. Gibson, district councilor, spoke on the MacDowell Fund which is an aid fund to assist musicians and composers in study and work. J. Merton Holcombe presented the historical background of modern band instruments.

Among other points made by the speaker was the fact that the flute, contrary to common belief, is one of the oldest instruments.

Music was offered by two duos composed of James and Robert Curry and Virginia Shambaugh and Marilyn Whitacre. Hostesses to the 51 members in attendance were Charlotte and Martha Purdy, Park avenue west. The junior song, which is being studied by all junior clubs, was sung.

Parents of members of the junior clubs will be the special guests of the organizations at this meeting. Arrangements for the program are being made by the club advisers. Host and hostesses for the musicale will be Miss Theresa Pfeiffer, Miss Vera Smythe, and Mr. and Mrs. William Layton, members of the social committee of the senior club.

The Crescendo club will meet Thursday evening at the home of Betty Axtell, Columbia avenue, to make arrangements for its part of the program. LeMoine Derr will present the program.

Friars' Club Arranges For Permanent Rooms

The Friars' club met yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. Robert Straub, president, presided at the business meeting during which permanent club rooms and a definite meeting time were decided upon.

A bake sale was planned for Jan. 27, at the Third Street Market. Plans were also discussed for a formal spring dance. A table discussion followed. The next meeting of the club will be Jan. 25 at the new club rooms on Fourth street.

* * *

SCHEDULE EVENTS

Mrs. Tunis Dillon, 32 Hammond avenue, will entertain the members of the E. T. club, Tuesday.

The I. H. N. class of the United Brethren church will meet Wednesday with Mrs. Leonard Hutzelman, 117 Poplar street.

Mrs. I. M. Palmer, 324 West Fourth street, will be hostess Wednesday to Circle Four of the First M. E. church.

Insincere Man Has Love of Girl

By VIRGINIA LEE

I WISH it were possible to make unattractive all those people who are selfish, insincere and utterly irresponsible. It seems to me it would save much misery if this was done.

There are so many people in the world—both men and women—who have a great deal of charm and attract others to them—make themselves loved—only to bring unhappiness to their lovers.

A LONESOME MAID tells of a man with whom she is in love. He has done everything, it seems to me, to show her that he is utterly unworthy of any woman's affection, but she cares for him still, and can only feel friendship for the other and more worthy boys who seek her company.

I'm sorry, dear Lonesome Maid, but I think your sister is a wise young woman and I agree with her absolutely. If you married this young man of whom you write, you certainly would soon "fall out of love" with him. He cannot be true to any one woman, it seems. He is not a moral person, is something of a drunkard, and does not keep his word.

It is a great pity he has such an attraction for you. Your sister hit upon the way to interest him in a girl when she had you write him that you were through and that other men are interested in you. That brought him right around, didn't it, with honeyed words? That shows you what you would be up against if he became your husband. You would always have to hide your real feelings for him, pretend that you cared nothing for him, and show him how others were attracted to you. That certainly would be a hard life and not worth any woman's while.

Try hard not to think of him at all. Go out with these other boys and have as good a time as possible, not trying to fall in love with them, however. Love won't be forced, you know. Just be good friends with these boys, and give yourself time to get over this infatuation—for infatuation it is—for this utterly unworthy person. That is my sincere advice, and I hope you follow it. Allow me to congratulate you on having such a fine, wise sister.

Favored Fashions

Make Panel Shirtwaist Style for Gay Mid-Season Wear.

By MARIAN MARTIN

The tailored shirtwaister takes an important place in the mid-season fashion picture; it's so right for so many occasions. There's hardly a moment of the day when a dress like this one from Pattern 9596 is not appropriate. You'll find its lines exceptionally becoming. This style is particularly easy to make, because the smart bosom front is cut all in one with the yoke. Effective details are the collar, button accents and the center, skirt pleat. Make the long-sleeved version of flannel, alpaca or tie silk and for warmer climates make the short sleeved version of printed challis, linen, wash silk or novelty cottons. Complete Marian Martin Diagrammed Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9596 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards 36 inch fabric.

BE SURE TO STATE SIZE

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Marian Martin's new spring pattern book is ready for you... Order it today! Brimful of new fashion thrills!...career clothes, party clothes, everyday clothes, lovely graduation styles...and a glorious trousseau for the Spring Bride...plenty of things for everyone from baby to grandmother. All easy-to-follow patterns that make home sewing a delight. Order today. Price of book fifteen cents. Price of pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together twenty-five cents.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

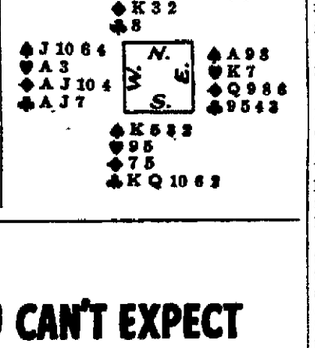
By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WARNING DISREGARDED

Successive passes followed by a suit bid scream out loud the fact that there is practically nothing but a bit of suit length in your hand. For your partner then to make a bid is to go counter to the logic of the situation, as he should know by then that your hand cannot possibly make a good dummy for him.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

Here North, East and South passed and West started the bidding with 1-Diamond. North passed again and East bid 2-Diamonds. When West now called 3-Diamonds, North put in a bid of 3-Hearts, figuring East's response would now probably be 3-No Trumps.

Having only a possible stopper in the heart suit, East was afraid to take the contract into 3-No Trumps, so passed. North had accomplished what he had hoped for until South decided to take North out of the 3-Hearts by bidding 4-Clubs. North knew his hand would be absolutely worthless to South at that contract, so was obliged to go 4-Hearts, which was of course doubled.

The defenders cashed two diamonds, two hearts, one spade and one club, so that South's mistake was rather costly, whereas, had he allowed the 3-Heart bid to stand, the opponents announced they would not have doubled.

Household Hints

Menu Hint.

SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPER

Slices of Fowl or Roast Meat on Toast or Baking Powder Biscuits
With Mushrooms
Golden Glow Salad
Christmas Fruit Cake
Cookies Nuts
Candy Tea or Coffee

This is a good suggestion for any Sunday night supper, and especially good after a holiday, when there is turkey, goose, duck, ham, pork or beef—any good-sized roast. Heat the slices of meat in gravy and serve over toast, with two or three mushrooms on top. Or make baking powder biscuits, and as you take them from the oven, split and serve the meat and mushrooms on top of these.

Today's Recipes.

GOLDEN GLOW SALAD—Add one and one-half cups boiling water to a package of lemon or orange gelatin and stir well Set aside to cool. When it begins to thicken, add a tablespoon vinegar, one cup grated or finely chopped carrot, and the same of shredded or finely cut canned pineapple. Season with paprika and a little salt, turn into small molds, chill well and unmold on lettuce.

Aunt Hannah Says.

If you know how to make a plain cream sauce of two tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons of flour, salt, pepper, and one cup milk, you have the basis for all sorts of extra-delicious variations.

Add one tablespoon curry powder to basic recipe to make curry sauce, for use over shrimp, meat left-overs, or rice.

Add two teaspoons dry mustard to basic recipe to make a mustard sauce for boiled or broiled fish, for boiled ham, or for frankfurters

Add one-fourth teaspoon ground nutmeg to basic sauce for use over white turnips, kohlrabi or boiled oyster plant.

A paste made of Fuller's earth rubbed over a grease-stained rug or carpet and allowed to remain for 24 hours will remove the stain.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Dicky's question, the same upon which he had rung the changes more than once in the days of the sojourn with us of Noel and Mary, irked me unreasonngly.

"I have told you at least three times that I cannot go to the city until the day after tomorrow," I answered, trying to keep my voice composed, and succeeded only in making it smugly irritating.

"Why?"

The monosyllable was subtly maddening, but I managed to hold on to my temper.

"Because, as I have pointed out before, Mary will be terribly upset tomorrow after Noel's leaving, and I do not wish to subject her to the strain of moving into the city until she has had a chance to rest for twenty-four hours."

He looked at me speculatively.

"Very laudable," he commented, "but will you answer me one question?"

Ready to Go.

"A dozen if you like," I retorted promptly.

"One—or, at least, two, will do," he said. "First, if it were not for Mary, could you go sometime tomorrow?"

"Of course. All my belongings are packed, and I have arranged for everything here until Katherine arrives."

"Might you not be mistaken about Mary's reactions to Noel's going? Suppose she is wild to get away from the scene of her distress?"

"If she is physically and nervously able to go," I said cautiously—"and I must be the judge of that—and I see that she wishes to get away, we will start as early as possible tomorrow. Will that do?"

"You know very well it will have to do," he retorted a bit sulkily, "but I should think you both would like to be saved the expense and bother of a train journey. I have to go into the city tomorrow anyway, and I could tote you both and all your luggage in the car. Lucky I have a sport sedan with a big rumble seat, for, I suppose as per usual, you will try to cram luggage enough for a freight car into a sedan."

Impossible for All.

I thought of the bags and cases for his drawings which would be his own quota of luggage, and waited for almost a second before I could control my anger at the gibe sufficiently to answer him nonchalantly.

"Thank you so much for the offer," I said airily, "but with your luggage and Mary's and mine, one car would be impossible. I was planning to take my own car when we go anyway."

"That will leave them without a car at the farm at all," Dicky pointed out, "for you surely don't dignify Jim's piece of junk with the name of a car."

"It will take him to the village and back," I retorted imperturbably, "and that is all that is necessary. I do not imagine your mother will be making any motor trips before Katherine arrives with the children in our big car."

Dicky's Anger Flares.

"No, I suppose not," Dicky tried not to be sulky but did not succeed But his next question was couched in amicable accents.

"Are you planning to keep your car in the city while you are with Mary?" he asked with careful casualness.

"I haven't thought about it yet," I replied evasively. "Why? Would you like me to?"

"What in the devil would I want of your car," he flared, "when I have a perfectly good one of my own?" Then he had the grace to apologize after a fashion.

"Sorry, sorry!" he said. "I'm a bit on edge this morning. The only reason I asked was to tip you off not to make any permanent arrangements about keeping it in there, for if old Phil Veritzen runs to his usual form, he will hand over a car for Mary's use and yours that will make your present one look like Jim's junk by comparison. And, in all probability, a chauffeur will be included."

"Nonsense!" I retorted in my first surprise at his bizaare assertion. Then I hedged, for his tone had held no uncertainty.

"Why would he want to do a foolish and extravagant thing like that?" I asked

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, January 18.

A PARTICULARLY active day is forecast from the ruling astral influences, with surprising and sudden situations. Discretion and diplomacy will be needed to meet treacheries, either in public or private affairs. There may be some menacing and sinister troubles dragged into the open. Beware of emotional disturbances and distresses.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a very lively year, with much stirring to excite and perhaps plunge them into unwise emotional disturbances. There are factors of deceit, treachery and sinister import to be manipulated with deliberation, composure and prudence. Duplicity may be dragged into the light.

A child born on this day may be extremely talented, versatile, adventurous and at times violent in its emotions and tempestuous outbreaks. It should have early discipline in such excitements. It may have hectic public contacts.

THEATER

HERE AND THERE—Rumors have it that Errol Flynn would bid on the yacht Aafje, scene of California's recent piracy murder. The melodramatic history of the craft appeals to him. . . . Eddie Robinson, portrayer of tough gangsters on the screen, has a master of arts degree from Columbia university. . . . In "The Baroness and the Butler," Twentieth Century-Fox is using extras and bit players to portray the Hungarian parliament. Their salaries are $15 a day, or $25 a day if they speak any lines. . . . According to reports, real members of the Hungarian parliament receive only $4 a day.

* * *

Historic Trail Theme

The historic Wells Fargo trail—the lane which connected St. Louis with San Francisco in early gold days—and the men who made and maintained it in face of Indians, bandits and nature, forms the dramatic background for "Wells Fargo," at the Ohio theater. The story of the film centers around the period of 1850 to 1870. In the picture Joel McCrea has the task of planning and opening the trails. Cast as a man of vision and courage, he is forced to leave his wife, played by Frances Dee, as the trail takes him farther and farther towards the west coast. Their difference of opinion causes a rift and the balance of the story winds around the activities of the two over a period of time. Others in the large supporting cast include Bob Burns, Lloyd Nolan, Henry O'Neill, Porter Hall, Ralph Morgan and Johnny Mack Brown.

* * *

Alice Faye in Musical

Starring Alice Faye and with a supporting cast of crack radio and screen entertainers, the musical comedy, "You're a Sweetheart," is the screen fare at the Madison theater through Tuesday. The film, which provides Miss Faye with her first starring role, presents the blond actress as the singing star of a stage show that has every indication of never opening. And then a young millionaire, posing as a waiter who is in love with Miss Faye, secretly provides the money to buy out the house on the opening night so the show will get front page publicity. George Murphy, Ken Murray and Oswald, William Gargan, Andy Devine, Charles Winninger, Frances Hunt and Benny Goodman's and Vincent Lopez' orchestras appear in the film.

* * *

"West of Shanghai"

The atmosphere of the interior of North China—rarely if ever before shown in pictures and particularly timely today with China in the headlines—comes to the screen in "West of Shanghai," opening at the Majestic theater Tuesday as the mid-week attraction. Boris Karloff tops the cast as a Chinese war lord who controls North China. A group of Americans, seeking to gain control of rich oil concessions in his country meet with a series of thrilling adventures before the curtain is dropped. Beverly Roberts, Ricardo Cortez, Gordon Oliver and Sheila Bromley support Karloff. "Blossoms On Broadway," with Edward Arnold, Shirley Ross, John Trent and Rufe Davis completes the twin bill.

* * *

"Magnificent Obsession"

Robert Taylor and Irene Dunne are co-starred in the screen adaptation of Lloyd C. Douglas's famous novel, "Magnificent Obsession," opening on the double feature program at the Ritz theater Tuesday. The film revolves around the tragedy of the lives of two lovers who at first hold a bitter hatred for each other. An accident brings the two closer together, but also brings blindness to Miss Dunne. Gilbert Roland, Charles Bickford and Marsha Hunt head the cast of Zane Grey's "Thunder Trail," which completes the entertainment.

For no ordinary soap stops "B.O." as Lifebuoy does... No ordinary soap gives you the same pepped-up, extra-clean feeling Lifebuoy does. And you are extra clean, you know. For Lifebuoy contains an exclusive purifying ingredient not in any other popular bath or toilet soap. Use Lifebuoy for your complexion, too. Its gentle lather will help clear, freshen, bring out your skin's natural loveliness. Lifebuoy is by test more than 20% milder than many leading "beauty" and "baby" soaps.
Get the Lifebuoy habit—for bath, for complexion and for hands! Remember, the germs of 27 or more diseases may be spread by hands alone—and that Lifebuoy's purifying lather removes germs as well as dirt!

Reed Held In High Esteem.

EVEN quicker to commend than to condemn, it is interesting and gratifying to note the many favorable expressions by newspapers and prominent men of both political parties in regard to the nomination of Stanley F. Reed to the United States Supreme Court as the successor of Justice George Sutherland.

Not only has the reaction to Mr. Reed's appointment been excellent in senatorial circles but the very general impression among those who know him, or who are familiar with his record, seems to be that he is a highly capable, clear-thinking man, thoroughly trained in the law and experienced along lines which have prepared him for the large responsibilities of membership on the nation's highest court.

Gaining first national attention as general counsel of the Farm Board, during the Hoover administration, Mr. Reed became solicitor general under appointment by President Roosevelt, in which capacity his work has been such as to make a fine impression upon all who have had opportunity to know of it.

Although Mr. Reed is regarded as a "liberal" in his attitude toward national problems, there has at no time been justification for considering him as of an extreme type or as one who would ever sacrifice principles to political expediency or unsound governmental doctrines.

"America moves forward, but only under the banner of its constitution as interpreted by the Supreme Court. Time will prove that its flexibility makes it adequate for the problems of today, as time has shown it has been adequate to meet the difficulties of the past."

In view of the deplorable Hugo Black episode, it is natural that the senate should wish to avoid repetition of the blunder that resulted from hasty confirmation, without investigation of that appointee's past unsavory record.

The senate will probably desire, therefore, to inquire carefully into Mr. Reed's qualifications and past record, even to the extent of holding public hearings before voting confirmation of his appointment.

In the case of Stanley Reed, however, it is entirely likely that the record will meet all reasonable requirements and that his appointment and confirmation will be quite generally approved.

Sunday Selling of 3.2 Beer.

DURING the recent controversy involving closing hours for liquor sales places, one of the requests of the liquor dealers was that the city ordinance on this subject be amended to prohibit sale of intoxicating liquors, "including 3.2 per cent beer" on Sundays.

"We are informed by counsel that 3.2 per cent beer is considered by law to be non-intoxicating. It, therefore, cannot be singled out from other commodities, or its sale prohibited."

As a matter of expediency, in connection with activities associated with the repeal of prohibition, it will be recalled that a decision was arbitrarily made that 3.2 beer is non-intoxicating—although courts have since held that a person who becomes drunk on 3.2 beer is just as drunk as he would otherwise be.

This fallacy that 3.2 beer is "non-intoxicating" has also been responsible for the licensing laxity that has resulted in scattering beer places into all parts of the city—to the extent of making them nuisances in many residential sections and easing the way for illegal sale of hard liquor by some unscrupulous permit-holders.

Whatever changes may eventually come about in restricting the liquor traffic in Ohio, there should be no further condoning of the ridiculous contention that 3.2 beer is non-intoxicating.

The Lure of Adventure.

TWO young American scientists recently started on a long trip into the far north. They will go beyond the Hudson Bay country in Canada, looking for "interesting discoveries" in plant and animal life. They do not expect to return until next August.

For much of the next seven months the young men will be separated from other friends and associates. They will be out of touch with human affairs in the populous centers of the world. They will suffer cold and fatigue, and will have to use their wits and skill to combat the hardships of the harsh region into which they go.

It is all in the day's work for them, no doubt, but if, in addition to escaping the world for a while, they find something really new and important to add to the sum of human knowledge, they will be considered positively lucky by a lot of folks whose jobs are closer to the world of human affairs.

Children Love School.

ANOTHER great tragedy of youth: It's no fun playing hookey any more. "Modern educational methods," says an investigator, "are making it so interesting for Junior that he prefers the classroom to the great outdoors."

The old-time truant officer, he continues, is licked and gone with the wind. Mind has triumphed over matter. Educators have grown so smart that they don't have to use force any more to pound instruction into boys' and girls' heads and keep them on the job.

There are "attendance officers," to be sure, but they're "specialists in the field of child behavior," familiar with psychology and psychiatry, who manage things with such wizardry that the kids stay on the job and keep busy and get an education so painlessly that they hardly know what is happening to them. It sounds almost too good to be true.

THROWN TO THE WOLVES

Tax Collection In Smaller Doses Proposed

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Representative Ambross J. Kennedy of Maryland has evolved a scheme to enable District of Columbia property owners to pay their real estate taxes in installments—that is to say, in much smaller installments than they are payable in at present.

Other representatives, and a few senators, regard the proposal with considerable favor.

The suggestion is made, however, by some of these others, that the plan might advantageously be greatly broadened—might be made to apply to all sorts of taxes: not real estate taxes alone. Also it is urged that it might be extended away beyond the boundaries of the District of Columbia—that it would be a good system on a national scale.

* * *

WHAT TO DIVIDE?

Nationally speaking, the only tax which could be cut up into smaller installments is the income tax, in its various forms. Tariff taxation, excise levies and similar indirect imposts are on an installment basis already—a pewee of an exaction on each packet of cigarets, et cetera.

But the federal income tax could be sub-divided more minutely.

And state taxes could be paid more gradually than now is customary.

Illustratively, state real estate taxation ordinarily has to be met annually or semi-annually—not a small mouthful, about a week at a time, as Representative Kennedy recommends.

* * *

CAN SET EXAMPLE

Congress, of course, is powerless to dictate collection methods to state, county and city tax authorities.

It can, however, set them a good example by establishing an improved system (if it IS an improvement) in the District of Columbia, which it DOES have authority over.

Representative Kennedy's theory is that it makes a taxpayer ache to have to foot a year's charges in one chunk, whereas he probably wouldn't feel the load so weightily if he had only to settle up to a few dollars' worth at briefer intervals.

* * *

SUPPOSE—

In other words:

Suppose his annual visible tax to be $1,000. Suppose he can pay it semi-annually—$500 per shot. Suppose even that he can pay it quarterly—$250 quadrennially—as he can do in the District of Columbia, if he makes the necessary prearrangements.

Still, $250 is enough to jolt the average citizen's bank account.

On the opposite hand:

Suppose that citizen could ante $17 and a few cents weekly into a fund to put him in the clear at the year's end. Would it pain him so severely?

(My figures are high, but it is convenient arithmetic.)

* * *

STEWART HAS DOUBTS

My conclusion is that it would not work, as to the average taxpayer.

It is well meant, but I am sure that it flies in the face of nature.

* * *

"PAY AS YOU GO"

I never went that cuckoo.

I am a resonably conservative individual. I budget my household expenses. And I allow, out of my budget, for a Christmas savings fund.

But my budget deficit always equals the amount of my Christmas savings deposits. My savings fund, when I realize on it, balances my accumulated deficits. Nothing is left for Santa Claus.

So I take it that installments, in the long run, are pure hooey.

Keep up with your tax collector as you go along; that is my motto.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Jan. 17, 1918.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Avery C. Hand, West Second street and Sturges avenue.

Mrs. Alice Harrington and Mrs. R. Anna Brook left for six months stay in Los Angeles.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Jan. 17, 1933.

E. G. Robinson, secretary-treasurer of the National Masonic Provident association, died at his home, Park avenue west.

Rev. Hayes M. Braker was elected to advisory committee of International Council of Religious Education.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Auxter and family were motoring through Florida and Louisiana.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schindler, Lexington, celebrated their 66th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Black, 193 Carpenter road, announced marriage of their daughter Una Mae Kelley, to Marion D. Ward, jr.

TODAY IS—

Monday, Jan. 17; calendar day of St. Anthony, patriarch of monks; Rosh Shanah Leayla-not-Shebat 15, 5698 in Jewish calendar. National Festival Day in Monaco. Full moon. This used to be National Thrift Day, before thrift became reactionary.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL—

Steel Improvements Go Ahead.

STEEL COMPANIES are going ahead with their improvements. That indicates they hope for a rapid increase in business—when it comes. It indicates, also, that machines will displace many men. But, even more, it indicates that new and less expensive uses will be found for steel, broadening markets. New uses for lightweight steels may open an entirely new world—at least, so it is hoped.

The betterment of steel plants may be termed, also, a form of armament. No nation is truly armed unless it has huge steel producing capacity. The Soviet Union is learning that. It desires to build large battleships. It cannot even begin them under three years—experts say—because in all Russia there is no plant that can turn out the armor plate.

* * *

SOUTH'S CHANGE

Noteworthy, too, is the constant upbuilding of steel plants in the south. This is changing the character of southern industrial life—and may change the southern political complexion.

The south is not likely to swing from the Democrats, but it is probable that the Old Guard southern senators and representatives will be voted out of office gradually. The New Deal follows on the wing of heavy industry.

Alabama is the state undergoing the largest industrial development in the south at the moment, due to the steel and coal industry there. And Alabama recently elected a New Deal senator — Lister Hill.

A VIEW OF US

Here is an interesting view of Americans—as given in a letter to the London Times by the head of the Salvation Army, General Evangeline Booth:

"After an almost continuous absence of three years, I found a changed and still changing United States during my recent tour of two months. I am not expressing any opinions on the merits of measures associated with the New Deal or controversies arising therefrom. I refer to the mind and purpose of the people. A great democracy is finding herself. Citizens are becoming politicians and politicians are realizing that they are citizens.

"Everywhere I was impressed by a deepening sense of civic responsibility in cities that I visited. For the first time the federal authorities at Washington are equipped with the kind of machinery for dealing with crime that we associate with Scotland Yard, and this machinery is in effective operation. In New York City the forces that make for honesty in municipal administration have chieved a momentous and I believe a permanent, victory for righteousness. The influence of religion, of education, of a free and courageous press has not been in vain.

"My impression of public opinion in the United States does not justify the idea that the people are uninterested in foreign affairs. . . . They want peace. Most of them believe that despite all cries a general war is incredible. They are thus wholly sympathetic with efforts to maintain peace, and are drawn inevitably towards any government that is making such efforts. Peace is the secret of the deep understanding between the United States and the British Commonwealth of Nations.

It would be a great mistake to suppose, however, that the United States is moved merely by the weakness of sentimentality. She is not a military nation. She hates militarism in every form, and believes it to be destructive of liberty and progress. But, with a growing realization of the vast issues involved, she is watching events and preparing to play her part if the necessity should arise.

"I am hardly qualified to speak upon exports and imports, tariffs, preferences, and such technicalities. What does impress every thoughtful observer is the significance of the trade agreement negotiations as an evidence of Anglo-American good will.

"I came back to London very much heartened by my impressions of what is probably the most potent force for peace and stability in the world today — Anglo-American friendship."

Young America Says—

The Heroic Pioneer Spirit Still Lives.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

"IT'S ALIVE TODAY . . . SPREADING ITS SPUNK AND VISION AND GOOD CHEER THROUGH SHABBY SHACKS AND CHEAP 'FURNISHED APT'S' . . . ADVANCING THE MENTAL HORIZON OF THE U. S. A."

So cries Mrs. J. Howard Rusco of Lawrence, Kan. . . . rising in defense of her countless college sisters who were risking all they have, not in some frontier mining camp but on university campuses where they are making homes and futures for the men and the land they love.

"Listen America!

"Particularly you who believe that Real Americanism perished with Grandma and that we of the younger generation are a lost hope. THIS GENERATION, BETWEEN THE AGES OF 20 AND 30 YEARS, IS SHOWING THE SAME COURAGE WHICH HAS CARRIED OUR COUNTRY ON IN EVERY PERIOD.

"I am thinking of a little group in the University of Kansas to which I belong—the wives of university students who call themselves the K. U. Dames. When it started, 27 years ago, 20 women were eligible for membership. Today there are 220—and each one is making a heroic struggle to promote the finest interests of America by backing her man...

"One is determined that her husband shall fulfill his ambition to be a doctor. This is his first year in college—they have two children.

"One can hardly realize what that means...eight years more of desperate struggle with poverty... living in inadequate quarters.... doing without clothes or pleasure ...watching youth vanish...seeing your babies suffer for lack of proper food...sacrificing essentials to buy expensive books...and always the wonder: WILL IT REALLY PROVE WORTH WHILE?

"HERE'S TO THE PIONEER WIVES AND MOTHERS OF 1938!"

Mrs. J. Howard Rusco—age 28
Lawrence, Kansas.

And many will join in that cheer, my dear—to those gallant front line fighters!

MORE medals—and well-deserved —for Young America from John J. Davala of Passaic, New Jersey.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"One hears so much elderly criticism of American Youth,—deploring and berating the young people of today. But how about the other side of the picture? While other nations are sending their young men out to be killers, how about the Young Americans who are studying and practicing the Brotherhood of Man?

"DURING THE DARK DAYS OF DEPRESSION, WHEN SUFFERING WAS UNIVERSAL, YOUNG AMERICA ANSWERED THE CALL...NOT TO ARMS BUT TO AIMS? INSTEAD OF DEALING DEATH, THEY SPREAD FRESH COURAGE TO LIVE.

"The Passaic High school offers a fine example of this Young Americanism. They have been successfully carrying on their 'Penny Aid Campaign' since 1932...collecting all spare pennies...and thereby contributing and administering several hundreds of dollars of actual cash relief to families of needy students, such as food, clothing, medicine, shelter, books, etc. Beside this, the whole student body have enthusiastically supported other movements such as the Red Cross, sale of Christmas T. B. Seals, etc....as well as gathering hundreds of pounds of potatoes and canned food stuffs.

John J. Davala—age 22
($10 prize winner)

A fine boast — and here's my hand to the school with such a shining record!

And now comes a chance for Young America to show its warmth of heart and breadth of mind—by preventing the pain which speaks through the following letter—BY FIGHTING THE RACIAL INTOLERANCE WHICH MAKES LIFE SO MISERABLE FOR MANY A GIRL AND BOY.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"I am a negro girl 20 years old, a High School graduate with a year's training at Normal...AND NOT ONCE IN MY SCHOOL LIFE HAVE I BEEN FREED FROM THE LASH OF RACE PREJUDICE.

"It seems to me that racial intolerance is something we cannot conquer by emotion. It should be studied, talked about...and since our schools are educational centers, they are the best place to carry on such study. Every student, regardless of blood, should be obliged to take a course in this subject to prepare him for life anywhere. It seems to me that this would be the first greatest step toward 'peace on earth, good will to men'."

Jennie Dell White—age 20
Evanston, Ill.
($5 prize winner)

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Nation of Law Worshippers.

WALTER E. SPAHR
Professor of Economics, New York University.

Faith in our ability to cure economic and other social ills by the passage of laws has become one of the major debilitating forces in modern times. The ramifications of the effects of this thoughtless and indefensible faith are almost endless. The unhealthy consequences flowing from the pursuit of policies based upon such faith are probably more far-reaching than we yet realize.

The common attitude of the on-coming generation as seen, for example, in the present crop of college students reveals something of the extent to which this notion has affected their thinking. As an instructor of such students, I am repeatedly disconcerted by their thinking and attitude toward such matters as the virtues of competition, of hard work, of thrift, of self-reliance.

Many of them feel that the world owes them a living. Not long ago, one of my students, in expressing a widely-held thought, insisted that he could not see why he should take a job at $18 per week if he could get $15 per week from the government, since this meant, he said, that he would be working for $3 per week!

Many of these students, like many of the general public, believe that laws can prevent business cycles, that more paper money would create more purchasing power and be a good thing, that wealth should be redistributed by law, that employers are fundamentally dishonest and robbers of the poor, that the profit-motive is to be deplored except (apparently) where they or their fathers or brothers are the employers), and that good-paying jobs should be waiting for them when they graduate. Perhaps the best way to convey in a brief space an accurate picture of this common attitude is to say that it is New Dealish.

It is not possible to say how typial these frequently-expressed views are of this generation of college students, but I am impressed with the extent to which it exists now as compared with 20 years ago.

These students probably reflect fairly accurately what has apparently become the attitude of millions of people in this country. When something goes wrong, or we find ourselves in trouble, the common response is that "Congress ought to pass a law."

The result is that congress in recent years has been trying to pass laws to cure or prevent practically everything that seems to cause difficulties. We have seen laws piled upon laws until we have only the vaguest knowledge of what our laws are or when we are violating them. They have beome abstract things having a vague, mystic value. It is widely assumed that they have ability to cure in some mysterious way our economic and social ills.

Indeed, our law-making frenzy has developed to such a point that we have been trying to legislate our way around the Constitution. We have revealed great impatience when the Constitution clearly stood in the way of some of our frenzied law-making.

We rarely repeal laws. That is contrary to the trend of public pressure. The demand, in general, especially of the thoughtless, is for more and more laws to cure more and more things. On businessmen and taxpayers, who must obey some of them, they have been bearing down with increasing pressure. At present these groups seem to have bogged down under the load.

As a nation, we apparently no longer have faith in the value of prices as a record of the forces of supply and demand flowing from the efforts of 130 million people to live and to make a living. We prefer to assume that legislators can by law overrule the judgments of these millions of people and make prices record what the legislators and the sellers think they should.

After the government led our people into war, we saw Congress trying to prevent by legislation the necessary and painful post-war readjustments. When such legislation brought inflation and other artificialities that culminated in the crash of 1929, we saw Congress try to legislate a new recovery into existence by providing more inflationary and other devices. When these and other governmental policies culminated in the recession of 1937, we had a demand for more laws—more laws and more power for the federal government.

That congress will try to regulate or control anything by law has been well illustrated by the recently proposed wages-hour and agricultural bills. Prices are to be controled, production regulated, consumer purchasing power enlarged, national income increased, poverty eliminated, security guaranteed, and on and on—all by law.

We are failing, increasingly, to face realities in these things. Some of these realities are harsh and always will be. Men are foolish, wasteful, careless, lazy, indifferent, mean and stupid as well as the reverse. But we legislate as though these facts no longer exist. Life can be very hard through our own fault or the fault of others; but we legislate as though we could avoid that fact.

Timely Editorial

Decision Suggests a Change.

By 7 to 2 decision the Supreme Court has ruled that a federal law prohibits United States officers from procuring evidence by wire tapping. Federal agents are included in the sweep of the 1934 act of Congress. Justice Roberts explained. Justice Sutherland and Justice McReynolds in a dissenting opinion assert that to put federal agents, warring on criminal gangs, in the same class with all other persons as to ethics of telephone usage, "is to lose all sense of proportion."

Law abiding citizens probably would favor a specific amendment to the communications act giving some latitude to federal officers. No right-minded citizen feels his liberty has ever been encroached upon by G-men listening in.—Toledo Blade.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

DIARY: An avalanche of oranges, grapefruit and tangerines from Billy De Beck, the Ryley Coopers, D. W. Griffith, Earl Carroll, James Woods, Paul Whiteman and Eddie Peabody. And J. P. McEvoy sent his new book, "Father Meets Son," pleasantly inscribed. Chester Marsh to a late breakfast.

Typing and a publisher asked me to select for an anthology the American poem best remembered. My instant choice was James Whitcomb Riley's "When the Frost Is On The Pumpkin." So in stitches over an hilarious self-drawn postcard from the dour Theodore Dreiser.

Abroad with my wife to a public and talking to the dazzling Lorraine Manville and met her new good-looking Holland husband, Mr. Dresselhuys. And spoke to Lucius Beebe there in white-tied elegance on way to the play. Also Beth Leary, the girl everybody knows, and her constant companion, Mrs. Jas. Farley.

A most ambitious exponent of a vanishing art is John Murgatroyd, who practises taxidermy in the serene St. James section of Brooklyn. At 73 he is still turning out specimen and sculptural models. And determined to quit only when he has created in bronze models of all living American animals. He has stuffed exhibits for Martin Johnson and many big game hunters. Among his patrons have been Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root, Cornelius Vanderbilt and Harry Payne Whitney.

The first of the radio announcers to make a stake whopping enough to retire is reputedly Ted Husing. According to the reliable Variety, the lean young fellow whose voice has been heard broadcasting most big football games is ready to call it a day. He may return to the microphone later or may pursue another calling but at the moment he just wants to get away, heigh ho, from it all. Graham McNamee is another weary with the grind and is taking on no more program commitments. The radio artist we should like to see retire before long—although we enjoy his artistry—is Rudy Vallee. He deserves to ease up and frivol a little before it is time for the chimney corner.

The chorus man is almost extinct. There are no longer professionals listed at the agencies because of so few calls. In peak years of the theater, there were 5,000. Many stars and featured players have come out of the comparatively lowly rank. Oscar Shaw and Jack Whiting are conspicuous examples. The average chorus man was a complex person living a bleak life away from footlights. He was invariably a meticulous dresser and being handsome was, of course, essential. He rarely indulged humanity's minor vices and had little interest in the ladies. Due to his small emolument—from $35 to $50 a week about six months of the year—he lived in shabby rooming houses and ate mostly in automats.

When I was articled to Ziegfeld, especially during the triumphal days of Marilyn Miller, I saw much of the chorus man. Ziegfeld was a Simon Legree toward most professionals — especially the high priced—but had a soft spot somehow for gentlemen of the ensemble. He would talk pleasantly to them, whereas his contacts with other more fortunate members of the cast were snarly. Incidentally, the profligacy of stage folk was strikingly illustrated in the settlement of Marilyn Miller's estate. Several years before her passing and when she had seen best professional days she made a will for her fortune far in excess of a half million. But at her death, save for a small annuity for her mother, she was broke.

Thingumbobs: The Philippine's Manuel Quezon has a germ phobia...Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese diplomat, tunes in on Amos 'n' Andy...Abel Green, Variety editor, writes notes in French to his friends just to keep in practice...A high school play that Meredith Nicholson wrote still brings him royalties.

All my life I've had a terror of policemen. Today, scanning a fresh edition along the street, I bumped into one. I expected to be clubbed silly and thrown into a patrol wagon. Instead he smiled, stood pleasantly chatting awhile and finally began to tell me a joke he had just heard. At which I rocked and fairly screamed with mirth. So much so, passersby stopped to gawk. I never realized until a block away that I was hysterical.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

The Jackson Candidacy.

IN THE past week, Robert H. Jackson, the voluble young Assistant Attorney General, now habitually referred to by his supporters as "brilliant, able and sincere," has passed from the stage in which he publicly declared his willingness to be the Democratic candidate for governor of New York, to the stage where he is somewhat apprehensively asking his friends whether they think he has come out too soon. Naturally, most of them tell him no. In other words, practically without disguise, he is running as hard and as fast as he knows how.

NOW, wholly apart from the political flavor which this imparts to Jackson's activities as the most mentally and physically vibrant official of the Department of Justice, it is impossible for the obvious facts connected with his gubernatorial candidacy of 1938 not to be construed as having their bearing upon the persidential nomination of 1940. Jackson himself is too intelligent not to grasp the relation. An exciting field of speculation has suddenly opened before him. It isn't easy for a man of his age to keep his balance under the circumstances, and it is not surprising that he has developed a degree of self-consciousness somewhat painful to behold.

HIS FRIENDS fear he is in a fair way to be overcome by the sad notion that anything he says from now on is of the first importance. Instead of talking, he has begun to declaim, and it detracts from his natural gayety and charm. In brief, he is on his way to becoming ponderous. They all do. Once seriously mention a man in connection with the presidency, or induce him to think seriously of himself in that connection and at once he starts to put on weight. Jackson is no exception to the rule. His gravity grows daily. And no wonder. The circumstances are such that it is inevitable he should picture himself as in the White House. In the first place, the odds are very long, indeed, that Mr. Roosevelt will not be a candidate to succeed himself. There is always much third-term talk of a popular second-term president, but it never has resulted in a third nomination—and no clear-headed man thinks it will in this case. However, it is certain the convention, if it does not name a man selected by Mr. Roosevelt, will not name one obnoxious to him. Most persons believe that, with a large field of favorite sons, as seems inevitable, the Roosevelt weight will insure the success of his choice.

THIS IS why this Jackson situation is significant. No one thinks Jackson would be the open candidate he is today, lovingly courting the labor leaders and making ghost-written class appeal speeches, but for the presidential support. If it is true—and it is—that Mr. Roosevelt wants him to be governor of New York, then it is impossible to escape the conclusion that Jackson is also the Roosevelt choice for the presidential nomination. At any rate, that is the conclusion to which political Washington logically has jumped. And it is somewhat resentfully cherished by other aspirants for the highest office, who feel their loyalty entitles them at least to an even break. They know, as does everyone, that the New York governorship is the best springing board for the presidency. They reason that the obvious desire of Mr. Roosevelt to put Jackson into the governorship is indicative of his 1940 intention. Give that young man the next two years as governor of New York and he certainly will loom large in the race.

THAT MR. JACKSON appreciates this is very clear to the naked eye, and the fact, as can be understood easily, does not enhance his popularity in certain circles. The question is, can he clear the first hurdle. The gubernatorial nomination is a matter of primary-selected delegates to a September convention which will not be controlled by Mr. Roosevelt, but by groups of leaders in cities and counties who make up the Farley organization. The idea of Jackson's friends is that his nomination can be forced by the combined weight of the White House and the labor leaders, with whom he is playing. There are some reasons to doubt this. One is that Jackson's recent speeches have alienated almost solidly the business element. Another is because there are at least two other known aspirants "under cover." And there are other reasons.

Youth Held After Knox Sheriff Kills Pal

BOY, 19, SLAIN AFTER BULLET FELLS DEPUTY

MT. VERNON — (AP) — Knox county authorities today considered possible action against Walter Lehman, 17, of Galena, O., held without charge following a gun battle in which his youthful companion was slain and a deputy sheriff wounded.

Edison Watts, 19, also a Galena, died from a bullet wound in his abdomen after he engaged Sheriff Clyde Biggs and Deputy Oliver Walker, 41, in a roadside duel near Mt. Liebrty yesterday. Walker was taken to a hospital suffering flesh wounds. Biggs said Lehman was not armed and did not take part in the foray.

Fired Twice.

Biggs related he and Walker were notified by Clarence McLarnen, service station attendant at Mt. Liberty, that one of two youths fired twice at him when McLarnen refused to assist them after their automobile was disabled near the town. The officers, Biggs said, drove toward Mt. Liberty and saw two youths walking along the highway. As the officers stepped from their automobile to question them, Watts fired, Biggs said. Walker, wounded in the hip, emptied his weapon, striking the youth in the elbow. Biggs, his head scraped by Watts' first bullet, then shot the youth through the abdomen.

Biggs said Lehman confessed to him and Sheriff Merton Pinney of Delaware county that he and Watts robbed a Delaware grocery store of $47 a few hours before the shooting. They had gone to Columbus and were enroute to Mt. Vernon when a tire blew out and they sought aid from McLarnen.

Biggs said Lehman was put on probation by former Judge Harrison W. Jewell at Delaware last May on a breaking and entering charge.

4 POLICEMEN HELD

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Four policemen faced hearings today after one of them shot and killed an acquaintance in a beer parlor altercation.

Traffic Patrolman John J. Rainey, 37, shot John Mancuso, 34, fruit dealer. The others are Motorcycle Patrolman Anthony Mika and Plain Clothes Policemen John O'Malley and Fred Bartlett.

Up and Down THE STREET

There are two boys in Mansfield who have two galoshes each that aren't mates, and what good are unmated galoshes, asks Bill Kochheiser, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Kochheiser, 147 Carpenter road. Bill went skating at North Lake and left his tan shoes and galoshes on the shore. When he returned one shoe and one galosh was missing, in their place, a strange galosh. And if the boy who got Bill's equipment by mistake will call him—there can be an exchange, and everything will be "okey-doke."

Although he has not announced his candidacy for re-election, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe may have taken the first step in his campaign. Purchasers of dog tags at the auditor's office are presented with a tiny envelope containing two rivets for attaching the tag to the dog's collar. On the envelope is a statement which sounds like a campaign move. It reads: "With the compliments of Norman L. Wolfe, county auditor." The auditor's post is one of three county offices to be filled next November. The others are for commissioner and representative.

In an effort to acquaint Mansfielders with some of the well-known fur bearing and smaller wild animals, Fred E. Elder, Senior high school biology teacher, who is in charge of the exhibits at the Memorial building, is planning a weekly exhibit of these animals. Each Saturday he will have on display two or three of these animals for the public to see. Among them will be the groundhog, prairie dog, muskrat, and the chipmunk.

2 STOPPED BY BULLET FIRE, 3 SURRENDER

4 Scale 22-Foot Prison Wall, 5th Retreats In Daylight Attempt For Freedom.

JOLIET, Ill.—(U.P.)—Alert and sharp-shooting guards were credited today with foiling a daylight break for freedom of five long-term convicts from the state penitentiary Sunday.

Four of the men succeeded in scaling the 22-foot prison wall. Two were stopped by bullets but were wounded only slightly. The others were captured as they attempted to flee toward the shelter of nearby buildings.

All Long-Termers.

Warden Joseph Ragen said the men were Harry Gerken, 28, serving a 30-year term for murder, from Peoria: William Yoho, 27, serving four consecutive one year to life terms for robbery, from Vermilion county: Peter Ristich, 26, life sentence as a habitual criminal, from Chicago: Donald Loftus, 36, life term for bank robbery, from McHenry county: and Edward Rabalais, 34, one year to life for burglary, from Chicago.

Ragen said the men, working in the prison laundry, overpowered Guard Edward Monahan and tied him with sheets. They took his wallet containing $31 but did not touch his gun. Then they bound together four short ladders, used in the laundry, and raced 100 yards to the other wall.

Gerken, Yoho, Loftus and Ristich got to the top of the wall. Ristisch sprained his ankle in jumping to the street and surrendered without a struggle.

Thomas Shaw, a tower guard, using a high-powered rifle, shot Loftus through the shoulder as he raced down the street. Then Shaw turned his fire on Gerken, who was wounded in the left leg.

MAP STRATEGY ON FILIBUSTER

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Sponsors of the filibustering anti-lynching bill called a strategy meeting today to plan ways and means of clamping down on southern senators who are blocking a vote on the measure.

"We have arranged for a meeting just as soon as Sen. Robert F. Wagner, D., N. Y., returns," Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, D., Ind., co-sponsor with Wagner of the bill, said. The New York senator has been ill for several days.

Van Nuys said the meeting early this week would make definite plans for night sessions and for rigid enforcement of senate rules against the filibusters, who appeared to be gaining an upper hand in the last few days of the ten-days-old conflict.

"There is no question in my mind that the bill will come to a vote and that it will get around 70 votes," Van Nuys said. "I am positive that the senate leadership will go along with whatever methods we decide to employ."

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., said, however, that the question of enforcement of rules against the filibusters was a "matter of day to day development."

L. W. BABB DIES

Heart Attack Proves Fatal to Mansfielder Saturday.

Lee W. Babb, 48, of 530 West Townview circle, manager of the Mansfield district of the Hoover Sweeper company, died unexpectedly at his home Saturday following a heart attack. He was born in Casstown, O., Nov. 6, 1889, and had been a resident of Mansfield for 12 years.

Mr. Babb is survived by his wife, Mary; his mother, Mrs. Harriett Babb of Troy; two sisters, Miss Ella Babb and Mrs. Bertha Dill of Troy, and six brothers, John L. of Columbus; Charles F. of Dover, Del., and Wilbur L., Vernon, Merrell and Webb all of Troy.

The body was shipped to the home of his mother in Troy where services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in charge of Rev. Robert L. Kennedy, pastor of the First Methodist church of Troy. Burial will be in the Casstown cemetery.

DIES SUNDAY

C. G. Siegfried, 72, Came From Germany at 17.

Charles G. Siegfried, 72, of Springfield township, died at his home eight miles west of Mansfield, early Sunday following an illness of several months.

Born in Germany, Dec. 19, 1865, Mr. Siegfried came to this country at the age of 17. He was a member of the Ontario M. E. church.

Surviving are his wife, four sons, Jesse of Mansfield, Otto of Bucyrus and Paul and John at home; four daughters, Mrs. Ray Downs of Springfield township; Mrs. Emerson Thomas of Lexington and Mrs. Joseph Poffenbaugh and Mrs. Harold Reed of Mansfield, and 18 grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. R. A. Hall of Ontario officiating. Burial will be in Shelby cemetery.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The time is ripe for a duplication of the hoaxes that brought Margaret Lindsay and Robert Cummings to Hollywood as "foreign stars."

Both Miss Lindsay and Cummings, Americans, sojourned in England and got their "breaks" here through posing as English players. Cummings advised Miss Lindsay on the procedure, then followed his own advice with equal success.

To say that Hollywood again has gone loco over foreign talent would be misleading. The foreigners are but part of a widespread influx of new talent, including many Americans, being drafted by various studios. This new year should be, decidedly, a year of "new faces." The urge to experiment with star material is dominant.

Still, the American-born would-be star, if overlooked as an American, might try the Lindsay-Cummings route to movie attention. Hollywood's curiosity is invariably aroused by a name that smacks of distant lands. Curiosity often leads to a contract, and a contract—often but not always—to a chance to let the public decide.

Metro has a dozen Europeans here waiting for their first screen opportunity in Hollywood. This studio—because Mr. Louis B. Mayer took a trip abroad leads in the number of new foreigners on its lists. The Italian Elena Quirici, Anthony Novatny of Czechoslovakia, Konstantin Gorian of Yugoslavia, the Hungarian Steven Bekassy, the Viennese Hedy LaMarr (who was Hedy Keisler of "Ecstasy") are among the reserves.

From France have come Ariane Borg, Mireille Balin, Jacqueline Laurant. Viennese Della Lind is cast in "Swiss Miss" with Laurel and Hardy. Hungarian Ilona Massey already has scored in "Rosalie," and Viennese Rose Stradner aroused studio enthusiasm in "The Last Gangster." From England there are Peter Bull and Don Stannard. Miliza Korius, Hungarian singer, has been here many months, still has not appeared in a picture.

Paramount has hopes for Franciska Gaal, already studio-approved in "The Buccaneer," and for Olympe Bradna and Rigaud and Isa Miranda. New Warner importations are chiefly English—Isabel Jeans, Melville Cooper, Bruce Lister and James Stephenson. Universal has its French Danielle Darrieux (proved in foreign films) and 20th Century-Fox its equally approved Annabella, with Scandinavian Osa Massen newly added to the roster. This studio, with Sonja Henie and a singing Simone freshly triumphant, probably has more reason than others to look abroad for "discoveries," although Hollywood's records prove that the public always has picked its favorites, not by nationalities, but by individual personality appeal.

With the fans, it hasn't seemed to matter where a star came from. For every Garbo, Luise Rainer, or Charles Boyer that the moviegoers have welcomed, there is a Lillian Harvey, a Henri Garat, or a Lil Dagover to whom the American box-office has said, in its forceful, direct and uncompromising language, "No, thank you."

CONGRESSMEN 'COLD' TO PLAN FOR U. S. TO BUY UTILITY GROUP

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A proposal that the government buy out the largest private utility group in the Tennessee Valley received scant support today from the first members of congress to discuss it.

Wendell L. Willkie had suggested that "as a last resort in a desperate situation," the government purchose power companies in that area which are subsidiaries of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation. Willkie is president of the latter company.

Representative Rankin D-Miss), leader of the public power bloc in the house, was more favorably inclined toward the diea than other legislators who commented. He expressed willingness for such a purchase if the price was not based on "inflated values."

Chairman May (D-Ky) of the house military committee, however ,opposed purchase "at any price" as the beginning of "state socialism." Senator King (D-Utah) objected to the government buying any power plant.

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb), father of the Tennessee Valley authority, said the government should make purcaheses only to avoid duplicating transmission lines or other equipment of private companies, but added:

"The utiltites have made this difficult by asking a price that nobody could afford to pay."

Willkie said his proposal was a reply to President Roosevelt's suggestion that the utilities sell their distribution systems to cities in the area.

Meanwhile, one administration adviser expressed doubt that the president would seek abolition of all business holding companies at this session of congress. Mr. Roosevelt said at a press conference last week that holding companies ought to be disbanded.

Some administration supporters in congress said they thought holding companies should be abolished by law only in the banking and insurance fields.

MRS. CRUM DIES AT HOME OF SON

Widow, 85, Succumbs Saturday; Was Crawford Native.

BUCYRUS — Mrs. Frances Jane Crum, 85, widow of David Oliver Crum, and native Crawford county resident, died at the home of her son, E. L. Crum, east of here, Saturday following a lingering illness.

Mrs. Crum is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lula Gwinner of Sandusky township, and Mrs. Maude Pope of Bucyrus; and four sons, E. L. and C. C. Crum of Liberty township; Fred of Bucyrus, and E. M. of Sulphur Springs. She was a member of Liberty Chapel United Brethren church.

Funeral services will be held at the Wise funeral home at 1:15 p. m. Tuesday and at the United Brethren church at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

HEALTH DIRECTOR ILL

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Dr. Walter Hartung, state health director, was in a hospital here today suffering from a kidney ailment. The hospital reported his condition as "painful." He entered the hospital last Friday.

CAPITAL WAITS CONFERENCE ON BUSINESS ILLS

Fears Roosevelt's Stand on Holding Firms Has Added to Present Fears.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)—Government and business prepared today for the first mass conference of the economic recession in an atmosphere of uncertainty regarding President Roosevelt's plan to decentralize control over industry and finance. A presidential message to congress on business reform is due soon.

Fifty members of the business advisory council organized under commerce department auspices will meet with Mr. Roosevelt Jan. 19. There is an inclination here to minimize importance of this meeting on two grounds; first, that it will be too large to permit more than general discussion of economic problems; second, that Mr. Roosevelt's unforeseen announcement that all holding companies may ultimately be liquidated has disturbed business.

The United States Chamber of Commerce complained cautiously against severity of administration strictures on business in a review of the week which said:

"The recent tendency to assail business and blame it for the recession has not proved conducive to the co-operative spirit so essential to confidence and recovery. Scolding and name calling do not make for team play between business and government."

New Plan Looms.

The chamber believes some new type of industrial planning legislation is germinating within the New Deal, possibly along the lines suggested a fortnight ago by Mr. Roosevelt that representatives of business and government could have round table discussions to minimize over-production and the cycles of unemployment and recession which flow from it. That plan, however, is denounced privately by some of the trust-busting New Dealers as both illegal and undesirable. They prefer to proceed by legislation directed, in general, to outlawing monopoly and decentralizing control over industry and finance.

The first major reaction to Mr. Roosevelts press conference condemnation of all holding companies came over the week-end from Wendell Willkie, president of the $1,167,000,000 Commonwealth and Southern corporation, a public utilities holding company. Willkie said Tennessee Valley Authority competition and Mr. Roosevelt's objection to the holding company principle woud combine to ruin his organization. He proposed that the government purchase Southeastern operating units of Commonwealth and Southern at a price to be agreed upon by three persons, one appointed by the president, one by the supreme court and one by the corporation.

There appeared today to be partial offsets to the unfavorable business situation with its complication of potentially serious friction between the business community and the administration. Agriculture and commerce department economists found cause to expect a better farm price structure and possible quickening of business and industrial activity.

WOMAN FACES MURDER CHARGE

Business Associate Jailed in Death of Real Estate Dealer.

DETROIT — (AP) — The state proceeded today with plans to charge Mrs Julia M Barker, once wealthy Detroit real estate dealer, with the slaying of Mrs Edith Mae Cummings, her friend and associate through the rise and decline of their business fortunes.

Assistant Prosecutor William E Dowling said he would recommend that Mrs Barker be charged with first degree murder

The 38-year-old prisoner, after refusing virtually all food and going sleepless for three days, was taken yesterday to the snow-filled ravine near Belleville, Mich., where Mrs Cummings was killed Saturday, but she flatly refused to make a statement

While two men engaged a clerk in the paint department, the third was believed by police to have taken $100 from the drawer in the cash register.

The robbery was discovered after the men had left. Police Chief Philip Trautman reported that men answering the description of the three had been seen in at least two other business establishments just previous to the hardware robbery.

2 GET 30-DAY JAIL SENTENCES

Transients Plead Guilty to Thefts From Auto.

Two men, arraigned in municipal court today on charges of petit larceny pleaded guilty and were sentenced to jail for 30 days.

The men who gave their names as John Williams and Stanley Thompson, both transients, were arrested early yesterday on Orange street by Capt. T. M. Bell and Patrolman C W Kyler The officers said the pair had in their possession a storage battery, a broom and some tools which they had stolen

Brought to the station for investigation, a charge of petit larceny was filed later when the men admitted the theft of the articles from a parked car, police said

553 MILLIONS APPROVED FOR NAVY SUPPLIES

House Committee OK's Bill to Build Super-Dreadnaughts, 20 Other Warships.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The house appropriations committee today reported a $553,266,494 navy department supply bill for the 1939 fiscal year, including funds for construction of two new super-dreadnaughts and 20 other warships for national defense on the seas.

The appropriation was $26,723,186 over navy funds for the current fiscal year, but $11,139,967 under requests of the budget bureau.

The supply bill is expected to be followed this week by a supplementary message from President Roosevelt, requesting authorizations beyond the $553,266,494 figure to carry out a program to make American fleets second to none afloat.

Gets Bill Tomorrow.

The house will begin considering the measure tomorrow if the treasury-post office supply bill is disposed of today.

The bill carries $138,063,150 for construction of naval vessels —$9,637,000 less than was requested. However, with continuing funds, $182,908,421 would be available for ship-building in fiscal 1939.

As drafted by the appropriations navy subcommittee, the bill would make available $18,422,100 to begin construction of two battleships with a completed cost of $70,850,300 each, two cruisers to cost $22,288,300, eight destroyers, six submarines, a minesweeper, a submarine tender, a fleet tug and an oiler.

The bill also provides $119,641,050 to carry forward construction of the battleships North Carolina and Washington, which already have been laid down, three aircraft carriers, eight cruisers, 43 destroyers, 16 submarines, a seaplane tender and a destroyer tender.

The report, submitted by Chairman William B. Umstead, DMN N. C., made no mention of the tense international situation or a world-wide naval building race.

A Farmer's Diary

January 15.

JUST before twilight this evening, I went to see a neighbor who was hauling corn fodder. His son loaded the bundles on the wagon and drove the team. The horses pulled up to a large shock. I noticed the graceful curves the wagon wheels had made in the snow. The farmer pitched the bundles hurriedly, as it was growing dark.

As the fork was buried into the last sheaf, a field mouse, frightened from his home, ran toward another shock less than fifty feet away. His instinct toward shelter was unerring. His path was direct. He had gone rapidly for half the distance, when suddenly he stopped and shrieked so loudly that I could hear him above the rattle of the fodder. He turned on his right side and writhed as if in pain. The farmer and his son turned to listen.

Like a dart from ambush an owl tore through the air, just above the team, caught the mouse in his talons and returned to the tree from where he had been watching.

I went to the place where the mouse had struggled in the snow. There, on the right side, was the print of two large claws.

GETS $1,300

BUCYRUS—Elmer Bletz, defendant in a damage suit arising from an automobile collision last July, was awarded a verdict of $1,300 on his cross petition by a jury in common pleas court late Friday. Two days were used in hearing testimony in the case.

The action was brought by Charles H. Miller who asked $1,977 for alleged injuries received in the crash which occurred seven miles south of Bucyrus on route 98. Bletz asked $1,500 on his cross petition.

APPOINTS NEW BUCYRUS POLICE OFFICER SOON

Service-Safety Director to Fill Vacancy From High Three Taking Quiz.

BUCYRUS—Appointment of a patrolman to the Bucyrus police force to fill the vacancy resulting from the death of James Ghist two months ago, today was expected to be made soon by Service-Safety Director W. G. Beebe.

The appointment will be made from a list of three persons who received the highest rating in a civil service examination held last Wednesday, in which 22 took the examination. Those having the three highest ratings are Arthur L. Stuckert, former Crawford county sheriff, David J. Robertson, a former deputy under Stuckert, and Franklin W. Weiler.

12 Pass Test.

Of the 22 who took the examination, 13 passed. The next 10 highest ratings were received by Bruce Sharrock, Robert Gerhinger, Chester Winklefoos, Carl F. McMahon, Charles Ghist, son of the deceased patrolman, Ricard O'Brien Edward J. Willacker, Frank J. Markey, Robert F. Trautman and Gilbert C. Collins These names will be placed on the eligibility list for a period of two years.

An examination was also given to provide an eligibility list for the fire department. Two men took the test, and one of them passed.

The highest grade in the examination was received by Robert Gehringer, one of the 13 who received highest ratings in the patrolman examination. His name will also be placed on the firemen eligibility list.

STARTS 16TH DAY OF FASTING

Pastor Says He'll Continue Hunt For Spiritual Immortality.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Dean Israel Harding Noe said with conviction today there would be no "turning back" in his search for spiritual perfection and immortality.

"Nobody who has seen me can say I am taking food on the sly," the 46-year-old fasting leader of St. Mary's Episcopal cathedral declared. "I look ghostly, you can see it."

"Dr. Fishbein (of the American Medical Association Journal) is right. No man could live on oranges alone—in the natural plane. The oranges only gave me energy last year. I have displaced the need for oranges by building up with the spiritual strength and energy."

MAPS CAMPAIGN

Society For 'Mercy Killings' Launches Drive In U. S.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — The National society for the legalization of euthanasia (mercy-killing) began a campaign today to achieve its aims through federal and state legislation.

Formation of the society was announced yesterday by Dr. Charles Francis Potter, president and leader of the first humanist society of New York. Its members believe that, with adequate safeguards, incurable sufferers should be permitted to choose immediate death.

Potter declared, "there is sure to be someone who says it is against the 10 commandments of Moses, who said 'Thou shalt not kill.' Perhaps the time has come to forget Moses and listen to the words of Jesus, 'Blessed are the merciful.'"

TICKETS ON SALE TODAY FOR M'CORMIC CONCERT WEDNESDAY

Tickets went on sale this afternoon at the Senior high school and three downtown stores for the appearance Wednesday night at the Senior high school auditorium of Mary McCormic, star of the Chicago Civic Opera company and former wife of Prince Serge Mdviani.

Tickets may be purchased at the Tawse Pharmacy, Bates on West Fourth street, Central Drug store, and the Senior high school book store. Admission charge for the performance will be 25 cents. Tickets may also be purchased at the auditorium box office on the night of the performance.

Miss McCormic is on a concert tour in this section of the country, and her appearance here will be the fulfillment of a promise to come here after she cancelled a contract to appear here last fall because of another engagement. She will come here for only her expenses, considerable lower than the original guarantee, according to J. Merton Holcombe, musical supervisor at the school.

The appearance of Miss McCormic in Mansfield is being sponsored by the music departments of the high school.

CHIEF PUTS BAN ON VISITORS AT RADIO STATION

It's Going to Be Quiet From Now on When Police Go on Air Over WQFY.

A "shush" order was in effect at the police station today—and doors of the radio room were locked to all except the deskman and the officer in charge.

From now on when WQFY is operating, there will be no foreign sound going out over the air with the operator's voice—take it from Police Chief Meade K. Bates who issued the "no admittance" order—which incidentally is one of the regulations set up by the Federal Communications commission.

In the future, closed doors will prevent the voices of irate motorists paying traffic tickets in the adjacent traffic bureau from being heard while the announcer is speaking. It also will exclude patrolman from loitering in the radio room.

"It's something that became necessary because of the unusual amount of loitering," Bates explained, "and something that will add to the efficiency of the department."

Badges Re-issued.

Another change in effect today was a shifting of badge numbers of all officers. The badges have been re-issued according to their seniority.

Number 1 is now worn by William Kneeland, oldest of the patrolman on the force. The only officer who has the same number that he wore before the change is Floyd Bowers, No. 19, latest addition to the department.

The number 13 is not in the list Bates said because when badges were purchased several years ago that number was considered unlucky by some and was purposely omitted.

3 INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Hurt When Cars Collide On Springmill-Lexington Road.

Three persons suffered minor injuries in an auto accident involving two cars, at 7 p. m. Saturday on the Springmill-Lexington road-four miles west of Mansfield.

Cars driven by Mrs. Cora Ogle, R. D. 3, and Carl Warne, R. D. 6, collided after skidding on the ice-covered road, according to State Highway Patrolman, R. L. Doebel.

Injured were Mrs. Ogle who sustained cuts about the hands, Miss Lola McDaniels, who was riding with Mrs. Ogle, leg injuries, and Mrs. Carl Warne, cut over one eye. In the car with Mr. and Mrs. Warne were three children, all escaped injuries.

POWER EXHIBIT?

3 U. S. Cruisers Sent To Far East For Naval Display.

WASHINGTON— (AP) — Diplomatic officials discussed the possibility today that the dispatch of three United States cruisers to Singapore next month is intended to give Japan a demonstration of the seapower Great Britain and America could combine in the far east.

Officially, the reason for the trip is to have the American navy represented at the opening of new docks—marking the virtual completion of Britain's formidable Singapore base.

Informed persons said, however, that the cruisers' visit would provide also a striking example of how the British and American fleets might co-operate should the protection of their interests in the Orient ever call for joint action.

COOKING SCHOOL SECTION

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JANUARY 17, 1938

3-Day Gasco Food To Open Tomorrow At Ohio Theater

The opening program of the 1938 Gasco Food Institute cooking school, always a red letter event for the women of Mansfield and vicinity, will be presented at the Ohio theater for three days, starting tomorrow at 9:30 a. m., and running through Thursday.

This outstanding event, free to all housewives in this vicinity, is made possible through the co-operation of The Gas company, the News-Journal and Mansfield merchants.

Featured on the three-day program is Miss Katherine Thiele, special food lecturer, and authority on home making, who will be in charge of all demonstrations. Miss Thiele, who is associated with the Gasco Institute, will be assisted by Miss Pauline Schofield, home service representative of The Gas company in Mansfield, and whose menu suggestions are features of the News-Journal's weekly food page.

A specially constructed model, all-gas kitchen will be the setting for Miss Thiele's lectures and demonstrations. The kitchen is constructed in small units, which when fitted together, make a complete and attractive stage setting for the cooking school.

Realistic Demonstrations.

The Gasco school depaits from the old idea of cooking demonstrations, in that they are more realistic at depicting a woman in her own domain

Programs for each day in this year's school are certain to find a popular reaction among Mansfield women, for they present an entirely new and fascinating array of food servings. The recipes have been selected with an eye to practicability and economy, even those that are designed to appeal to the eye and whet the appetite.

The program tomorrow is designed as "Get Acquainted Day," in which the audience will be familiarized with all of the new phases of the 1938 Gasco Institute school. including co-operating merchants, the food lecturer and her assistant, and the all-gas kitchen.

In addition to this there will be such intriguing subjects as "The Copper Pig," representing the family budget; "Low Temperature Cooking," "Brought Forward Cooking," and others which will be demonstrated as the school progresses.

All arrangements and properties of the school will be under the direction of Ronald Lowe, manager of the Gasco Institute unit, which arrived in Mansfield today.

One of the features of the school is the appearance on the final day of Dr. Roy A. Burkhart, prominent lecturer, author and authority on home making philosophy. He is a counselor on home relations, and on Thursday will discuss "Achieving Happiness In the Home." He will be remembered for the talk he gave last year at the Gasco cooking school.

Co-operating Merchants.

Mansfield merchants and concerns who are co-operating with The Gas company and the News-Journal in bringing the Gasco Institute school to this city, are:

Bissman company, Isaly Dairy company, National Biscuit company, Home Materials, Central Fruit company, Arbaugh's grocery, Martin's hardware, Schroer's furniture company, Tracy and Avery company, Roger's Jewelry, Independent Grocers Institute, Scattergood and Sons, Inc., Nickles bakery, Carek Florist, Page Dairy company, Shaw's Credit Jewelers, Mansfield Rapid Transit company, Albert F. Remy company, Mansfield Wallpaper store, Square Deal Food stores and Sugardale Meats.

Model All-Gas Kitchen To Be In Spotlight

Of special interest to the homemakers of Mansfield is the model all-gas kitchen being used on the stage of the Ohio theater Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday as the attractive setting for the program of the 1938 Gasco Food institute.

The kitchen not only serves as the setting in which Miss Katherine Thiele, food lecturer, prepares all food servings, but also, furnishes new ideas to those homemakers planning to build new homes or remodel their present kitchens.

The arrangement of the kitchen follows recommendations by national home economics authorities on kitchen planning. The Servel Electrolux gas refrigerator on one side of the kitchen serves as the food storage center. In the middle is the sink which supplies the cleaning center for foods, utensils and dishes. On the other side is the modern Tappan gas range, which is the preparation and serving center. By clever arrangement of those three important centers, the kitchen appears entirely different from any you have ever seen.

Besides these conventional features, there is another entirely new one incorporated in this model kitchen. It is the breakfast bar. But the breakfast bar serves more than a place to eat the first meal of the day.

Above the breakfast bar are recipe files and a telephone, so that it becomes the business office of the kitchen. In addition, it will also serve as a convenient place to prepare foods besides being a popular spot during raids on the gas refrigerator at night.

Electrolux In 11th Year

In the short period of 10 years, well over a million Servel Electrolux gas refrigerators have been sold in this country, and are now serving their owners with silent, dependable refrigeration. In 1937, Servel, Inc., manufacturers of Electrolux gas refrigerators, celebrated the 10th anniversary of the making of the first gas refrigerator with a sales record which exceeded any year in its history.

Most responsible for this ever increasing popularity of the gas refrigerator, is its entirely different principle of operation. A tiny gas flame replaces all moving parts in its freezing system. Silently, this flame circulates the common refrigerant, maintaining constant cold in the storage compartment and freezing an abundance of sparkling ice cubes.

As a result of this advanced refrigerating principle, all moving parts that wear out and require costly replacement are eliminated in the freezing system assuring longer life of trouble-free service.

Gas refrigeration is the most economical of modern refrigerating methods. Actual surveys among Servel Electrolux owners of a year or more reveal the average cost to be less than two cents a day.

Use 'Little Crow' Pancake Flour

A Remy specialty—"Little Crow" pancake flour—will be used by Miss Katherine Thiele, cooking expert, in demonstrations at the Gasco Food Institute tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday at the Ohio theater.

Manufactured with both buckwheat and wheat, "Little Crow" flour is convenient and economical. With it, the housewife can prepare a tasty breakfast in short order and at a cost that will go a long way toward reducing the family budget.

The Remy company supplies standard grocery items for many of the retail stores in this area, including the Square Deal chain of stores. Through its satisfactory dealings with retailers, the Remy company annually increases its scope in the Mansfield area and has shown rapid growth in the past decade.

Add a teaspoon of vinegar to each cup of furniture polish to increase its brilliancy. Shoe polishes may also be treated in this manner.

Institute Leaders

Pictured here are Ronald Lowe, manager of the Gasco institute, who will be in charge of the three-day Gasco cooking institute which opens at the Ohio theater tomorrow morning, and Miss Katherine Thiele, the institute lecturer. Both Miss Thiele and Lowe will take part in each day's session of the institute.

Silex Used By Institute

The art of making good coffee in the home has been enhanced many times with the development of the modern gas Silex, vacuum type glass coffee maker manufactured in Hartford, Conn.

As the original producers of glass coffee makers in this country, Silex has a background of nearly 30 years experience in this field. From what was once considered only a novelty of crude glass construction and with only alcohol heat, this line has been continually expanded until it now embraces numerous models for both households and restaurants.

The kitchen model gas Silex units may be safely operated on any open flame gas range. No protective mat or plate between the burner and glass is required because of the specially treated glass with which Silex coffee makers are constructed

Carek To Furnish Floral Pieces At Institute Sessions

The latest in table centerpieces and floral decorations for the home will be shown at the Gasco Food Institute Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Ohio theater, with fresh flowers to be supplied by Carek Florist, Inc., 28 Park avenue west.

Each day fresh cut flowers will be arranged in several style bouquets to show the housewives the very latest in table centerpieces as well as bouquets for radio decorations.

Carek's will also make up the corsages to be worn each day by the demonstrators. New corsages will be worn each day of the school. The floral company will also furnish large palms to be used in the decorating of the stage.

In the six years that Careks' have operated in Mansfield they have gained a reputation for special floral arrangements, particularly in wedding bouquets, funeral sprays, and table centerpieces for parties.

Radio Designed For Kitchens

While Miss Katherine Thiele, food lecturer, gives her daily demonstrations at the Gasco Food Institute, which opens tomorrow morning at the Ohio theater, she will have continuous entertainment by means of a radio furnished by Shaw's Credit Jewelers, 71 North Main street.

These small sets are made especially for the kitchen, so they will not take up much room, and will afford the housewife entertainment while working in the kitchen. Shaw's have a variety of models and makes of leading radios on display at their store.

Dr. Burkhart, Noted Lecturer To Address Food Institute

One of the features of the Gasco Food institute program again this year will be the appearance of Dr. Roy A. Burkhart, noted lecturer and author of Columbus Dr. Burkhart will be remembered by many here for his talk given at the Gasco Food Institute last year.

Dr. Burkhart will discuss 'Achieving Happiness in the Home" at the final day's meeting of the 1938 Institute Thursday, at the Ohio theater. His subject this year will deal with what he chooses to call the "mental health" of the parents in the home. He will elaborate on certain fundamental principles which, if followed out, will tend to promote better harmony and happier living in the home.

Dr. Burkhart is an authority on home problems. He has lectured all over the country to both young people and adults. For a number of years he has served as a consultant to family groups. Coming to Columbus as a religious leader, he established a behavior clinic to which young people come with all kinds of problems, and where parents are aided with suggestions to better their work as managers of a home.

DR. ROY A. BURKHART

For some time Dr. Burkhart has conducted a radio program over a Columbus station in which he has given advice and answered questions regarding family adjustments for hundreds of listeners. He is the author of a number of well-known books in the field of home and family management.

Kitchen Now Makes Cooking An Easy Job

Planning kitchens to lighten the burden of modern homemakers has been the objective of architects for the past decade. Previous to this time, most kitchens were constructed without regard to accessibility, lighting arrangement of appliances or any of the other more important details that make today's kitchens culinary laboratories of utmost efficiency.

The most important phase of modern kitchen planning is the close relationship of the various work centers plus the selection of equipment and materials to develop these centers into a unified and balanced room.

Since the modern kitchen is composed of a number of parts carefully planned to fit together, accepted practice today builds the kitchen around three main centers, namely the sink, the range and the refrigerator, with the sink placed in a position between the latter two appliances. The doors, windows, light and ventilation of the kitchen must be considered in relation to these equipment work centers.

Generally, when purchasing materials to be used in the kitchen, the planning engineer must consider the size of the room. In building a new home, the size should depend upon the amount of cooking to be done and the number of people who are to work in it. Recently, there has been a greater trend to larger kitchens which give one a sense of roominess.

After the size and shape of the kitchen has been decided, the location of doors, windows, plumbing, etc, must be considered in their relation to the size of the appointments to be used. This done, work centers are then placed so as to take advantage of all available space by including as many efficient groupings as possible. For instance, since the refrigerator, range and sink constitute the three main work centers, they should be arranged so as to take advantage of the room plan and then brought together by means of storage cabinets and work-tops.

Thousands of other suggestions for planning modern kitchens are available without obligation to those who are interested by calling the home service representative of the gas company in this community.

Food Clinic In Story Form

Recognizing the importance of having the proper continuity for each demonstration of the 1938 Gasco Food Institute, the Home Service department of the Ohio Fuel Gas company enlisted the services of Mrs. Theodore B. Merrill to prepare the script used at all sessions.

By employing this prominent playwright, the cooking clinic's demonstrations are cast in story form rather than following the usual cooking school procedure which was instructive but undramatic in sequence.

This change, requiring additional equipment and talent, has gained unanimous favor of the audiences who have witnessed the presentations because of its unique manner in presenting the art of modern cookery.

Mrs. Merrill first gained national recognition as a writer of short plays. These were presented on the program of a large automobile manufacturer over a nation-wide network More recently, her plays have been the subject of considerable praise from enthusiastic stage critics whose acclaim was responsible for their being cast in some of the larger cities in the United States.

Scattergood's Furnish Table Cover For School

Of particular interest to Mansfield home makers who attend the Gasco cooking school this week, will be the attractive lace table cover which will be used on the dining room table.

From the complete linen department of Scattergood and Son, Inc., the Scranton lace cloth will be selected. It is a Croydon Manor pattern of unusually heavy quality and a linen finish. This however, is only one pattern chosen from a large selection available at the store.

The department features its Better-All linens, of large and small covers with napkins to match. The colors are more varied than those of the rainbow and are practical from a laundry standpoint as well as adding a dash of color to breakfast room or dining room.

Among the more expensive linens are those of fine Irish weave in lusterful white and soft ivorys which form a perfect background for any color of china or crystal.

Shows Latest In Wall Paper

Although spring is still several weeks away, it's not too early to begin planning for the annual clean-up, paint-up campaign, and one of the reliable places in Mansfield to purchase wall paper and paint is the Mansfield Wall Paper store at 118 North Main street.

The latest designs and shades in wall paper will be shown at the Gasco Food Institute tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday at the Ohio theater.

Washable window shades and washable, sun-resistent wall paper for kitchens will be featured by the Mansfield Wall Paper store, along with a wide variety of new styles in wall paper for every room in the house.

All-Gas Kitchen Used In Cooking School

Above is pictured the model all-gas kitchen which will supply the attractive setting for all the programs of the 1938 Gasco Food Institute opening Tuesday morning at 9:30. The kitchen as shown is completely assembled as it will appear on the Ohio theater stage Tuesday. However, it is constructed in many small units so that it may be taken down and transported from place to place.

More than a hundred different units comprising the kitchen will arrive in Mansfield Monday morning where they will be set up under the supervision of Ronald Lowe, Institute Manager.

The 1938 Gasco Food Institute is being presented cooperatively by The News-Journal, The Ohio Fuel Gas Company and Mansfield merchants. Programs are planned for each morning at 9 30 on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Bus Service For Institute Patrons

The housewife who wants to avoid parking worries when she attends the Gasco Food institute which opens tomorrow at the Ohio theater will find convenience in the 15-minute bus service of the Mansfield Rapid Transit company.

All of the company's buses operating west on the Park avenue west route will stop at the Ohio theater during the three days of the institute, bus officials announced today.

"Leave your parking troubles at home," they urged in reminding housewives and other visitors to the institute of the frequent bus service to the theater at small cost.

Recipes For First Day of Institute

|---|---|
| 1 C mashed peaches | 1 tsp. gelatine |
| ¼ C sugar | ½ pt. whipping cream |
| 3 Tbspt. light syrup | Almond extract |
| 1 Tbsp. water | Salt |

Peel and mash peaches. Add sugar, syrup and salt. Soak gelatin in cold water and disolve over hot water. Add almond extract and gelatine to peach mixture gradually. Fold in whipped cream. Put in trays of Electrolux refrigerator and freeze without stirring.

Savory Rice

|---|---|
| 2 C. chopped meat | tershire sauce |
| ¼ lb. chopped bacon | 5 Tbsp. green pepper, chopped |
| 4 C. tomato juice | 5 Tbsp. chopped onion |
| 1 C. rice, uncooked | 1 tsp. salt |
| ¼ tsp. Worces- | ½ tsp. pepper |

Fry bacon in skillet with onion and green pepper. Add ground meat and remaining ingredients. Place cover on skillet, and turn flame to simmer. Cook for 45 minutes.

Egg Nog Pie

|---|---|
| 4 egg yolks, slightly beaten | ¼ C. cold water |
| | 4 egg whites, beaten stiff |
| ½ C. sugar | ½ C. sugar |
| ½ tsp. salt | 2 tsp. vanilla or rum |
| ½ C. hot water | 1 tsp. nutmeg |
| 1 Tbsp. gelatin | Pastry shell |

Sprinkle gelatine over top of cold water. Cook egg yolks, ½ C. sugar, salt and hot water over boiling water or on simmer set burner until of custard consistency. Remove and add softened gelatin and cool. When mixture starts to congeal, fold in egg whites to which have been added the ½ C. sugar, flavoring and nutmeg. Fill baker pie shell and use spatula to make swirls in filling. Decorate swirls with toasted co-

Schroer's New Kitchen Unit Fits Any Home

As spring swings around the corner, homemakers begin to plan changes in the home as well as a few new furnishings, and with this thought in mind, Schroer's Furniture company has a complete service to offer.

One of their most attractive suggestions is the new complete kitchen unit of shining white cupboards, drawers and closets, which may be fitted into any kitchen without going to the trouble of having it torn up and rebuilt. These units are compact and practical, and are so constructed that new sinks and stoves may be made a part of them.

Another feature of their home refurnishing service is repairing and upholstering old furniture, slip-covering worn and shoddy pieces, which many times is more attractive when refinished than it was in the beginning. This is especially true of furniture that was made in the "drab" period when nothing but dull, neutral colors were used.

The department also makes new furniture which may be selected as to design and color to fit in with any color scheme.

The attractive period design dining room set which will be displayed on the stage of the Ohio theater during the Gasco Food Institute will come from the Schroer stock of furniture.

Curtis Cabinet To Be Used In Stage Kitchen

Curtis cabinets, which are distributed in Mansfield by the Home Materials Lumber company, will be used to make a unit kitchen on the stage of the Ohio theater when the all gas cooking school sponsored by the Gasco Institute and Mansfield merchants gets under way Tuesday at 9:30 a. m.

The Curtis people were pioneers in the field of kitchen modernizing, and the present day space-saving units are a far cry from the old fashioned "kitchen cabinet" which graced every well-equipped kitchen 20 years ago. The new units are made of wood and built in enough various styles to be used as flexible units in either newly built homes or old houses. The cabinets, which resemble modern furniture, are stream-lined and built to provide the maximum of storage space in limited quarters.

Featured at the Gasco school will be a kitchen floor plan emphasizing the most efficient arrangement of sink, range, refrigerator, work table, and cabinets. The Curtis cabinets, which may be procured in any size or in any number of units, are installed so as to be permanent fixtures of the kitchen thereby eliminating the nuisance of moving to clean, and the unsanitary practice of leaving utensils exposed.

The Curtis company maintains a kitchen planning department which has planned more than 50,000 kitchens and the units are all approved and used by the Good Housekeeping Institute.

Oven Dinner.

Roast Beef
Baked Idaho Potatoes
Piquant Beets
Emerald Salad
French Fruit Pudding and Sterling Sauce
Time: 5 hours Temp.: 250 degrees

To prepare the beef for roasting, wipe off with damp cloth. Rub with salt and pepper and place on cookie sheet uncovered without water.

Idaho potatoes—scrub and rub with melted butter.

Piquant Beets

Peel and cut beets into cubes. Mix ½ C sugar, 1 Tbsp. cornstarch and ½ C. vinegar. Pour over raw beets. Add enough water to make ½ inch of liquid in bottom of pan. Cover and place in oven with dinner. Just before serving, add 2 Tbsp. butter. Add one clove to raw beet mixture to improve flavor.

Baked Green Beans in Tomato Sauce.

3 C. green beans
2 Tbsp. shortening
2 Tbsp. flour
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. sugar
3 Tbsp. grated horseradish
2 C. tomato juice

Melt shortening, add flour, salt, pepper, sugar and grated horseradish. When thoroughly blended, add the tomato juice. Stir until thick and smooth. Put the green beans in greased casserole dish. Pour sauce over the top and bake with oven dinner for five hours at 250 degrees.

French Fruit Pudding.

1 C. finely chopped suet
1 C. molasses
1 C. sour milk
1½ tsp. soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. cloves
1¼ C. seeded raisins, chopped
½ C. currants
2¾ C. flour

Add molasses and sour milk to suet; add 2 C. flour mixed and sifted with soda, salt, and spices. Add fruit mixed with remaining flour. Steam 4 hours in steamer or 5 hours in slow oven. Serve with Sterling Sauce.

Shrimp Appetizer

Shrimp appetizers usually are popular on the buffet table Select firm uniform shrimps, clean and chill. Arrange them "hanging" on a small bowl in which is placed chili sauce, mayonnaise or any other relish Serve wood picks for spearing the shrimps.

Here's Setting For Institute Cooking Sessions

Pictured above is the beautiful model all-gas kitchen which furnishes the background for all programs of the 1938 Gasco Food Institute. It is especially constructed in small units, which, when assembled, make the model kitchen set-up. Those who attend sessions of the institute which opens at the Ohio theater tomorrow morning will have an opportunity to see how efficiently cooking can be done in it.

Oyster Has High Food Value; Economy Makes It Favorite

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Since Roman gourmets praised its succulence in poems at their feasts, the oyster has been held in high regard. Despite its ancient lineage and the aristocratic company it keeps, the supreme shellfish is a valuable food—and an economical one to boot.

It's high in mineral content—iodine, iron and calcium. It's comparatively cheap because it's all food—no waste from trimming. And there's an almost endless variety in the way you can serve oysters, from au naturel to the delicious baked combinations.

Don't Soak Them.

There are a number of species, Blue Points, Lynnhavens, Cape Cods, Olympia and Pacific. But in most markets oysters are sold in two classifications, stand and select. They are perishable, so you'd better buy from a reliable dealer. Keep them very cold and serve them within a day of the time you get them. Always get some of the liquid along with the oysters when you can. It's a flavorful addition to stews and escalloped mixtures.

In preparing oysters for cooking, rub them between the fingers to remove any stray particles of shell and to strain off excess liquid. Never soak them; that spoils the flavor. But if you feel they should be washed, rinse them quickly in cold water.

Don't overcook oysters. That makes them less easily digestible And don't salt them until they are ready to be eaten. If you salt them too soon they'll be tough.

First, The Half-Shell.

As for serving. Oysters on the half-shell, of course, is the first possibility. You don't have to have the shells; arrange them on a shallow dish if you want to. Five or six oysters make a portion. Serve relishes such as horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, chopped pickles with them, all chilled, of course. Lemon juice will improve the flavor of any uncooked oyster dish.

For an oyster cocktail, put five or six small ones in a glass cup lined with cress or shredded lettuce and top them with a wedge of lemon and a teaspoon of sauce, again all chilled.

To make enough sauce to serve five or six mix four tablespoons of catsup, one tablespoon each of lemon juice, chili sauce, chopped parsley and horseradish, then add a fourth-teaspoon each of sugar, salt, paprika and Worcestershire.

Next on the oyster schedule are stews and creamed soups. Heat the oysters for about three minutes, then add them to hot cream sauce or milk, well seasoned. For oyster bisque, chop the oysters and put them into a savory white sauce.

Special Arrangement.

Broiled or baked oysters are specials. Arrange them in a buttered shallow baking dish, sprinkle with lemon juice, minced parsley, onion and horseradish and cover with bacon strips Bake or broil until bacon is crisp and the edges of oysters have curled up.

For frying, select large oysters, dip them in rolled crumbs, well seasoned with salt, pepper, chopped parsley and celery salt, then into egg yolk and again in crumbs. Chill before browning them in a small amount of hot fat Tartar sauce is good with fried oysters.

To insure the blending of flavors in escalloped oysters, mix seasonings and a generous portion of melted butter with the crumbs Arrange in layers with oysters, then add milk, cutting down through with a knife to allow the moisture to penetrate. Escalloped oysters should be baked for thirty-five minutes.

For the famous pigs in blankets, surround plump oysters with bacon strips, held in place with wood picks, set on toast squares, sprinkle with assorted seasonings and broil.

Chicken-Rice Creole Makes Tasty Meal

Nearly every homemaker, who does any amount of cooking, has some favorite dish she enjoys preparing. Sometimes these creations are of a rare or unusual variety, then sometimes just one of the old standard dishes cooked in such a way as to appease the appetite of the most fastidious person. Incidentally, chicken and rice creole is simple to prepare, delicious when served and provides a whole meal dish that is generally acceptable to the majority of people. Here is the recipe and method:

Chicken-Rice Creole.

2 teaspoons fat
2 teaspoons butter
1 medium onion, chopped
2 raw corrots
1 cup canned tomatoes
2 whole cloves
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups boiling water
1 cup rice, washed and drained.

Clean and cut chicken into frying pieces. Flour lightly. Melt fat and butter in heavy skillet and and brown onion, then remove. Brown chicken in fat, then place in center of large covered baking dish. Combine tomatoes, carrots, seasonings and boiling water, then pour around chicken. Sprinkle rice evenly around chicken and add fried onion. Cover. Bake at 350 degrees until rice is thoroughly cooked and chicken tender (about one hour).

Gingerbread Top

Creamed cheese mixed with chopped dates and nuts makes a tasty topping for freshly baked gingerbread or it can be used as a filling for two layers of chocolate or spice cake

Central Fruit Provides Food Products

Three important food products which are wholesaled by the Central Fruit and Grocery company are being used in demonstration work by Miss Katherine Thiele, food lecturer, who will conduct the Gasco Food Institute here at the Ohio theater Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The products are Phillip's Delicious Soups, Sunsweet Prunes, and Fancy Brand Spices.

The soups, which are prepared in one of the largest food plants in America, were used by Admiral Byrd on both his North and South pole expeditions. Chef George Rector, who has a nation-wide reputation, prepares these soups.

Prunes, especially Sunsweet "tenderized" prunes, have become one of the most popular fruits of the day, because wise women realize that there is no other fruit that contains the rich cellulose or food bulk in such a natural and useful form. Coming in a large sunny yellow package trimmed with red, the real "tenderized" prunes are easily selected on the grocer's shelves. These same packages seal in all the fruity goodness of the product in a foil carton so that every bit of food value and flavor is preserved indefinitely.

The Gasco Food Institute is featuring Fancy Brand Spices which are packaged in metal rather than cardboard containers, thereby preserving strength and flavor and far exceed the government standard requirements for spiciness.

While the early submarines took 25 minutes to submerge, modern war-time submarines can submerge in from one to two minutes. The submersion time has come to be a vital factor in providing rapid escape from gun ramming and attack.

3 NATIONAL BISCUIT PRODUCTS FEATURED IN COOKING SCHOOL

Three products of the National Biscuit company will be featured at the Gasco Institute cooking school, which opens a three-day session at the Ohio theater Tuesday morning.

Mansfield women are interested in National Biscuit products for something more than the fine quality of the products themselves—the company, now the largest baking concern in the world, had its origin in Mansfield in 1898. It now has the largest industrial plant within the limits of New York City, with 57 bakeries over the country and distributing plants, such as the Mansfield unit, in dozens of American, Canadian and foreign cities. One of the best known products is shredded wheat biscuits.

Three products that will be used by the instructor at the cooking school are Ritz crackers, N. B. C. Graham crackers and Premium salt crackers. Miss Katherine Thiele, food lecturer, will use all of these in the dishes which she will make on the stage during the school. She will stress the fact that Ritz crackers have come to be the most popular wafer on the market for serving with cocktails and appetizers, or as canapes.

N. B. C. Grahams, which may be depended upon for their crispness and freshness, are popular for use in desserts as well as for a light lunch for youngsters after school or before going to bed.

Premium crackers are all-round purpose wafers, to be used in souffles, vegetable custards, served with soups or salads, or for breading meats.

This Means Something!

Miss Thiele Has This to Say About Birdie Brand Canned Goods:

"When a decision was to be made as to what brand of canned corn, peas and other garden products we would use in the Food Institute, we decided 'Birdie Brand.' We chose this Mansfield product for we found so much goodness, freshness and other qualities in Birdie Brand, together with its economy of use, which more than lived up to our rigid school requirements."

BUILDS WORLD'S BIGGEST ENGINE USING PROPANE

Plymouth Works Ships Unique Locomotive to Minnesota Railroad Company.

Powered by propane gas, the world's largest locomotive using this fuel has been shipped by the Plymouth Locomotive Works, a division of the Fate-Root-Heath company, to a Minnesota railroad company.

Built after the style of the earlier electric locomotives, the cab of the engine is in the middle instead of at the rear as in steam locomotives. Fuel tanks are immediately under the cab.

The value of propane gas which is similar to gasoline but cheaper and more efficient, as applied to locomotives, was discovered about three years ago with the original application being made by a large steel company in Chicago, according to George Kirtley of Mansfield, assistant to the vice president of the locomotive works.

Builds 6 of This Type.

"The success of this fuel for this purpose has been so apparent that since that time six of these unique locomotives have been ordered from our company," Kirtley said.

"The propane engine is simply a standard heavy duty gasoline engine slightly modified to use the propane fuel," Kirtley explains. "It enters the engine, due to its quality of vaporizing when released, as a true gas and therefore, not only increases the horsepower of the standard gasoline engine, but leaves no carbon formation in the cylinders nor any dilution of the engine lubricating oil. The fuel is readily obtainable, cheap and in wide use by industries and railroads for purposes other than driving engines."

Kirtley pointed out that propane fuel does not take the place of gasoline or diesel fuel, but its discovery makes possible the use of a third fuel when, for any reason, the application of gasoline or diesel fuel is undesirable or not economical. He said it also opens up a new field for the use of internal combustion locomotives not previously covered.

The Plymouth firm is negotiating with two other large companies for locomotives similar to the one shipped to Minnesota.

Martin's Offer Wide Variety Of Utensils

One of the principal joys of home-making is the possession of efficient and attractive utensils and equipment. The Martin Hardware company is prepared to supply every need of the housewife as will be shown at the Gasco Food Institute which opens tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. at the Ohio theater.

Taylor oven or candy thermometers are important but inexpensive pieces of equipment and are essential to real culinary perfection. For one thing the thermometers eliminate all guess work from food preparation. The housewife can rest assured that her oven is at the proper temperature for baking, broiling, or roasting when it is equipped with a Taylor guide.

There are probably two schools of thought on the utensil subject. One group is doubtlessly addicted to aluminum while the other will have nothing but glass. Today, however, no matter what your choice may be there is equipment to suit your taste in the Mirro-Aluminum and the Pyrex ware. This new and scientific aluminum ware is constructed to aid in economical cooking and in preservation of the vitamins and natural juices of foods.

Today you can find a pyrex dish for everything, from custard cups to frying pans. One of the points in favor of the glass cooking utensils is the absolute cleanliness.

Institute Uses Honor Brand Products

Who said there was nothing new under the sun? Only a few years ago everyone marveled at strawberries for the holidays, and now through the Honor Brand method of quick-frosting any fresh fruit, vegetable or meat is available for consumption in any market any time of the year.

The Honor Brand products are being featured by the Gasco Food Institute which opens at the Ohio theater beginning tomorrow morning at 9:30. Arbaugh's Grocery distributes the products here.

Why freeze food the house wife asks when distribution is so perfected that fresh things are nearly always available? Honor Brand foods save time in meal preparation because the foods are all cleaned and ready to cook, the cooking time is diminished, labor of hulling, stringing and cleaning is eliminated, refrigerator space is saved, net rather than gross weight is all that the buyer pays for, and the quality is uniformly high at all seasons of the year.

Every kind of perishable food is quick-frosted at low temperatures to preserve their freshness, their appearance and color, their flavor, their sugar sweetness and their vitamins.

Contrary to popular opinion, Honor Brand products are no more expensive than the same foods bought fresh from the markets. They are economical to use because there is no waste, trim or hull pods to be eliminated.

Notes On Polish

Plymouth Firm Turns Out New Locomotive

Bissman's One Of Oldest Wholesalers

The name of the Bissman company, wholesale grocers, will be conspicuous at the cooking school which the Gasco Food Institute and Mansfield merchants will conduct at the Ohio theater this week.

The Bissman company, one of the older wholesale concerns in the city, was founded in 1878 by Peter Bissman and is still operated by the third and fourth generation of the family.

Three of the items which will be used at the cooking school are distributed by Bissman through the Square Deal stores.

One of the fundamental items is White Rose flour, which will be used exclusively by Miss Katherine Thiele, authority on cookery who will conduct the Gasco school. This brand is milled and sacked at Marion by the Kansas Milling company. It is made of soft winter wheat grown in this part of Ohio.

Birdie brand canned vegetables will be used by Miss Thiele. These are noted for their freshness and full flavor. They are grown in Michigan and canned near the vegetables tracts.

Better Cup coffee, distributed by Bissmans and which will be demonstrated at the school, is roasted and blended by experts and noted for its uniform quality. It is put up in heavy paper containers, thus saving the customer the higher price of tin containers, and losing none of its flavor or strength.

Sprinkle chopped dates, raisins, chocolate shot or grated sweet chocolate, nuts, coconut or candied fruit over the top of cake batter just before putting it into the oven. It will give the cake a tasty coating. Use half a cup of coating for the average-size cake.

HONOR BRAND FINER FROSTED FOODS

PEAS AND MOST HONOR BRAND VEGETABLES AND FRUITS ARE FROSTED INDIVIDUALLY

YOU KNOW what a wealth of flavor there is in fresh-picked fruits and vegetables—or sea food just taken from the water.

Just such delicious, fresh goodness is brought to you in every package of Honor Brand Frosted Foods you buy. The original goodness of the food is SEALED IN by the Honor Brand quick-freezing method—right on the spot where the fruits and vegetables are picked—where seafood is brought in—where the poultry is dressed.

The Honor Brand Loose Pack will also please you. This improved method frosts every pea, for example, individually. You can therefore use part of a carton without defrosting the entire contents.

So convenient to buy. No guessing about the amount you need. No preparation for cooking. Do you realize that one pound of Honor Brand Peas is equal to 3½ pounds of unshelled peas?
